Four To Receive Awards At NU Honors Convocation

Three University of Nebraska-Lincoln students and a recent graduate will be awarded the coveted Boucher Awards for scholastic excellence at NU's 46 Honors Convocation to be held at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Coliseum.

Classes will be dismissed for the convocation. There will be no classes on the City Campus from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and none on the East Campus from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Chancellor James H. Zumberge will address the convocation and present awards for Superior Scholarship. More than 2,800 undergraduates and professional school students will be cited for High Scholarship.

Dr. Kenneth L. Bader, vice chancellor for student affairs, will be master of ceremonies. Dr. Virginia Y. Trotter, vice chancellor for academic affairs, will cite University faculty for outstanding teaching.

The awards, named for former NU Chancellor C. S. Boucher, are given to the man and the woman with the highest 4-year grade average, the ROTC Cadet with the highest 4-year average, and the major sports letterman with the highest average for four years.

The woman with the highest average is Jo Ellen Bass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer L. Long of Red Cloud. She is majoring in anthropology in the College of Arts and Sciences and plans to attend Harvard Law School beginning this fall.

A 1969 graduate of Red Cloud High School, Mrs. Bass and her husband, David, reside in Lincoln (2525 S St.). She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta honorary.

Gary Ralph Simpson, who earned his Bachelor of Science Degree in electrical engineering from the NU College of Engineering and Technology in December, is the man with the highest average. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Simpson of Route 1, Stromsburg.

Simpson is currently a design engineer with Honeywell-Test Instruments Division in Denver. He and his recent bride, the former Peggy Moran of Alliance, a 1972 graduate of NU, live in Englewood, Colo. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Sigma Tau and Eta Kappa NU honoraries and was a Summer Orientation Host.

Galen Edward Stehlik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin F. Stehlik of Wilber, is the ROTC Cadet with the highest average. Stehlik is an Air Force ROTC Cadet Group Commander.

He is majoring in social sciences in the Teachers College and plans to attend law school and the U. S. Air Force Navigational School. He is a member of Arnold Air Society and Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Alpha Theta honoraries.

Letterman with the highest average is James Oliver Gump, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle L. Gump of Lincoln (724 S. 45th). He is a 4-year letterman in gymnastics and is majoring in speech communications and history in the College of Arts and Sciences.

He has been awarded a Fulbright-Hays Scholarship for graduate study in history at the University of Auckland, New Zealand next year. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Alpha Theta honoraries, is a University Studies participant, a NOVA volunteer and a member of the Arts and Sciences Advisory Board.

Hearsts Take Trip To Baja California

Hillsborough, Calif. (AP) — The parents of kidnapped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst left San Francisco on a predawn flight to Mexico Sunday.

The Hearst family would not say where Randolph A. Hearst and his wife, Catherine, were staying. However, there were indications their private jet went to La Paz, a fishing resort on the tip of Baja California.

"Randy said to me he's gone to regroup and kind of get it together and try to find out where he can go from here," said nephew William Randolph Hearst III.

"He doesn't really want to be in this house and he doesn't know what to do so he is going somewhere he can think about it a little more," said Hearst.

Hearst said his uncle was accompanied by Mrs. Hearst and two of his daughters, Virginia Bosworth, 24, and Anne Hearst, 18.

He said they would return immediately if there was any new word about Patricia.

A family friend said earlier the Hearsts were not headed for a rendezvous with the terrorist group which claims to have kidnapped their daughter more than two months ago.

Man Held In Killing Of 4

SEATTLE (AP) — A 29-year-old man was being held for questioning Sunday in the deaths of two women and two children whose bodies were found stuffed in a closet. All four had been choked to death, police said.

Police withheld the man's name and refused to make any comment about their investigation except to say they weren't seeking any other person.

Authorities said the bodies of Ann Muldrew, 30; her sister, Dorothy Buren, 23, and two Buren children, George, 9, and Renee, 8, were discovered Friday night. The two women were nude; the children were fully clothed.

Marguerite Nuckols, mother of the two women, found the bodies when she went to hang up her coat in a closet in the Buren apartment, police said. She had gone to the apartment after becoming alarmed at the disappearance of the four.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Muldrew, who worked as a clerk at the King County courthouse, dropped off her daughter Fawn, 4, at a small day care center operated by Marguerite Johnson, 65.

When Mrs. Muldrew failed to pick up Fawn that afternoon, Miss Johnson contacted the Nuckols family.

Mrs. Nuckols reported Mrs. Muldrew missing and later went to the Buren apartment with Miss Johnson and discovered the bodies.

Police said the four had been dead about 24 hours when discovered.

Leadership Under Fire

... From Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unsatisfied with President Nixon's promise of a full review of Veterans Administration problems, the Democratic congressional leadership has called instead for replacement of Administrator Donald E. Johnson and other top management officials.

Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., declared in a nationwide radio address Sunday that Johnson had turned the VA into a "dumping ground" for former Nixon campaigners and that the President appeared to have been "completely misinformed" about the agency's shortcomings.

Teague's remarks came as the Democratic leadership response to Nixon's broadcast a week earlier in which the President announced he had directed Johnson to establish "a crack management team" to study complaints over paperwork snarls and hospital conditions. Nixon also said he would name a veterans committee within the White House.

But Teague, former chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, said he sided with "the view of major veterans organizations that a change in top administration of VA is necessary."

"The proposals of the President for self-investigation are to me ridiculous and will not solve the problems of VA," the congressman declared.

Teague said Johnson had drawn upon former employees of the Committee to Re-elect the President to fill important, high-salary positions at VA. They have proved, he said, to be "incompetent... unqualified... inexperienced."

"The President seems to be completely misinformed about the problems," he said. "The agency does not need more committees and self-investigation. It needs a change in top level management."

Teague said Johnson "has completely wrecked the leadership of the Department of Medicine and Surgery." He accused the administrator of harassing Dr. Marc J. Musser, chief medical officer, so that Musser and other key professional men have resigned or retired.

Nixon, in his remarks a week ago, said his administration was determined "to be absolutely sure that we're doing the best job possible" for veterans.

Teague said that "Each year for the past four years, Congress has found it necessary to add substantially to the budget proposed for the Veterans Administration." Spending is now set at $13.6 billion.

ON THE JOB... Phillips keeps busy at the switchboard.

Male Phone Operator Surprises Some Callers

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

People are always calling him "M'am" but Jim Phillips doesn't mind; his male voice catches his customers by surprise.

A long distance operator at the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. (LT&T) Jim is one of four men who share the long distance and directory assistance duties with a field of 275 females. He'll be joined shortly by three other men who are now in training.

"People hesitate when I answer," reported Jim. Some even come right out and ask if he's a male operator. "But people are getting more used to it," he observed, noting that male operators have gotten quite a bit of national publicity and are more common than a year ago.

What is perhaps not so commonly known is that when the telephone industry began in 1876 all the operators were males, related Neal J. Westphal, personnel director of the Lincoln company.

Westphal went on to say that in recent years the first male operator joined the company in 1972.

Since that time 12 have been hired, with seven still currently employed.

As far as Jim is concerned the duties of a telephone operator are not particularly male or female oriented. Ability depends on the individual and he or she must be "fast and efficient," believes Jim.

In fact his big complaint is that "a lot of people don't think of operators as people." They think they're "talking to a machine on the wall," he said. While at the switchboard, Jim says he's regarded as any other operator by his co-workers. During break time, the women "try to clean up their language when I'm around," he jested.

As for any guff from his friends, Jim couldn't resist a smile when he relayed that "I've been called the fast operator on occasion."

A senior majoring in psychology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Jim puts in 12 hours a week at the switchboard.

Following graduation in August and a possible move from Lincoln, he plans to continue working with a telephone company.

Aides Say Nixon Viewed As Key Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returned Sunday from a sudden summit in Paris, his aides saying that the world leaders he met still view him as a key force in the quest for global stability.

Especially bolstered, according to White House officials, were hopes for Nixon's upcoming trip to the Soviet Union, with some progress already recorded on the issue of nuclear controls.

Nixon went to the French capital to attend a memorial service for Georges Pompidou, the French president who died last Tuesday.

While there, Nixon met with the leaders of seven nations also in Paris for the Pompidou memorial.

According to presidential chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, the meeting did not cover the Watergate scandal or President Nixon's domestic problems. However, it was apparent that the administration was trying to indicate Nixon's important role in world affairs as a buttress against moves for impeachment.

"It was very evident that European leaders and world leaders with whom the President met," Haig told reporters on the flight back from Paris. "continue to look to the United States and President Nixon as an essential factor in the realization of the continuing effort to develop a structure for a stable international environment."

Nixon spent Sunday morning meeting separately with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and Japanese Premier Kakuei Tanaka. Saturday Nixon saw officials from Great Britain, West Germany, Italy, Denmark and France.

During the Podgorny meeting, Haig said that great progress was made on the matter of nuclear arms limitations.

The general said the two leaders emphasized President Nixon's late June summit meeting in Moscow.

"It was very clear," Haig said, "that the Soviets and ourselves are very optimistic about the outcome and it is clear that there will be positive results... in the areas of trade, technological exchanges, and certainly in SALT."

The President landed at nearby Andrews Air Force Base and immediately boarded a helicopter for his retreat at Camp David in the Maryland mountains.

He will stay overnight before returning to the White House. His only announced appointment for this week is a campaign trip to Michigan on behalf of a Republican candidate running in a special congressional election.

Concerning the Podgorny meeting, Haig said that "both sides have set the preliminary stages for finite and real accomplishments during Summit III," when Nixon is in Moscow.

Neither Haig nor Ronald L. Ziegler, President Nixon's press spokesman, would provide any substance to support the claim of expected major accomplishments during the June meeting.

Haig, for instance, said only that "we expect positive results in the SALT area," when asked if there would be a treaty signed limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

On other matters, Haig said Tanaka renewed an invitation for President Nixon to visit Japan. The American leader said he hopes to do so sometime in 1974.

The two White House aides insisted to reporters that Nixon's weekend meetings were initiated by the other foreign officials.

But sources in the American diplomatic community in Paris as well as some foreign embassies there had indicated that Nixon took the opportunity of the Pompidou memorial to arrange for the mini-summits.

Meyer Hopes Border Dispute With Missouri Will Be Settled

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer
Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer hopes the century-old boundary dispute between Nebraska and Missouri over 3,500 acres of Missouri River bottomland will be settled shortly.

Meyer and Missouri Atty. Gen. John Danforth in January jointly asked the U.S. Supreme Court to dismiss a suit on the boundary question filed by Missouri in 1966.

In light of litigation costs which Meyer estimated could total $400,000, the two attorneys general have agreed to an out-of-court settlement. Meyer said the costs of pursuing the lawsuit would not be recovered through taxes on the disputed land for some years, if ever.

The boundary in the proposed settlement basically follows the main channel of the Missouri River for 62 miles in Richardson, Nemaha and Otoe counties. Meyer said the border is "substantially similar" to a border compact proposed by Nebraska in 1972 but rejected by Missouri.

As yet, the court has not ruled on the joint motion to dismiss.

If dismissed, the settlement would wrap up the last of Nebraska's pending boundary disputes. Another boundary dispute with the State of Iowa involving considerably more acreage was generally decided in Nebraska's favor over a year ago by a special master named by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Unlike the Missouri case, the Iowa dispute involved not only the question of which state had the right to tax the disputed land but also ownership questions.

Meyer noted that ownership of the nine parcels of land is not an issue in the Missouri case, since Nebraska and Missouri have similar land accretion laws.

In the motion to dismiss, both attorneys general said they "recognize the fact that the judicial process no longer lends itself to an economically feasible solution of the political disputes between the peoples of the two states."

Looking ahead, they said, "The Missouri River is now relatively stabilized by work done under the direction and the supervision of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and a boundary based upon a stabilized main channel... would be, if the works are properly maintained... fixed and permanent."

The dispute arose when the Missouri River, the designated boundary between the two states, changed course several times over the last 100 years. The changes have left some land which was once on the Missouri side now on the Nebraska side.

Israeli Warplanes Used Against Syrian Positions

By The Associated Press

Artillery boomed on the Golan Heights for the 27th straight day Sunday. Syria said Israeli warplanes strafed a Syrian army position on Mt. Hermon twice, but Israel denied any new air activity.

On Saturday, Israeli warplanes were used on the Golan front for the first time since the October Middle East war. Israel said they were called in after a Syrian force crossed the truce line and attacked an Israeli position on Mt. Hermon at the northern tip of the front.

The Syrian communique said the new attacks began with a strafing run by one jet, followed 22 minutes later by an attack on the same position by two jets. No losses were reported.

The Israeli command said Israeli soldiers were still searching the mountain for the 40-man Syrian force it said infiltrated across the lines the day before.

Meanwhile, thousands followed in the footsteps of Jesus into ancient Jerusalem in a Palm Sunday procession that cut a colorful swath down the Mount of Olives to the walls of the city.

Waving palm leaves and singing hosannas, the devout performed the annual procession in warm sunny weather.

Boy Scouts, aged nuns, school children and American and European pilgrims made up the crowd that moved down the mountain and along a stretch of four-lane highway before turning into the Via Dolorosa to disperse.

At the same time, the political storm continued over Israel's unpreparedness in the October war, despite a government commission declaring last week that Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan were not to blame.

The Israeli state radio said Sunday that Dayan has proposed that the entire Israeli Cabinet resign because of the controversy. He said he would then agree to take a post other than defense minister when the new Cabinet is formed.

Members of Dayan's own Labor party, including Deputy Premier Yigal Allon and Labor Minister Yitzhak Rabin, have called for Dayan's resignation, saying the man in over-all charge last October should shoulder the blame. The government commission of inquiry had said that Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the chief of staff last October, was primarily responsible for the unpreparedness.

Nixon Returns From 'Search For World Peace'

Washington — President Nixon returned home Sunday from Paris, where he had attended memorial ceremonies for President Pompidou of France and conferred with a number of government leaders. Nixon's aides said that the trip demonstrated the President's key role in the search for world peace. (More on Page 1.)

Oil Cartel Faces Problems

New York — The organization of petroleum exporting countries — the cartel that has pushed up the price of oil by 400% in the last year — faces serious internal problems and possible breakup by 1980 because of potential sharp conflicts of interest among its members, according to Walter J. Levy, an influential oil economist. A study by Levy, which has been given wide attention among high government circles in the United States and Europe, says that the division in the ranks of the producers could result in a sharp decline in the price of oil in the latter years of this decade.

IRS Still Eyeing Nixon's Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service apparently has yet to close its files on whether fraud was committed in the preparation of President Nixon's tax returns in recent years. IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander Sunday confirmed a White House statement that no cause had been found for leveling such a charge against Nixon personally. But when asked if the same were true of those who helped draft the returns, he replied: "I can't comment on what action the IRS may be or may not be taking with respect to others."

World News

Alexander said also that "you're talking about an IRS investigation" when newsmen brought up reports that parts of a $100,000 campaign contribution from Howard Hughes had been passed to President Nixon's personal secretary and his two brothers. He would not elaborate.

His comments came on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation."

Another question left open by the commissioner was speculation that the IRS included a five per cent penalty for negligence in its finding of $432,787.13 in underpaid taxes for the years 1969-72 for Nixon. The White House

Rebozo Trip Established

Washington — Senate Watergate investigators have established, according to well-placed sources, that Charles G. Rebozo, a close friend of the President, had flown to a Catskills fishing retreat of Robert H. Abplanalp, also a friend of the President, about one week before a controversial $100,000 campaign contribution was returned last year to the Howard Hughes organization. The investigators regard the meeting as significant because, the sources said, they now believe that Rebozo at the time was seeking a safe means of returning the $100,000, which had been contributed in 1969 and 1970 by Howard Hughes. Chaban-Delmas Wins Backing

Paris — Jacques Chaban-Delmas, former premier of France, won the full backing of the powerful Gaullist Party as its candidate for president. Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, France's finance minister and head of the Independent Republicans, is expected to announce Monday whether he too will run. Giscard version, Alexander replied: "You're talking about an IRS investigation. I can't and won't comment on an IRS investigation."

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., meanwhile, said that information developed by an independent congressional probe of Nixon's taxes would justify a further investigation through the courts as to whether the law had been violated by persons other than the President.

Mills said he doubted whether a negligence penalty had been assessed by the IRS, but conceded his panel might not have been privy to such action despite close cooperation with the agency during their separate probes.

Mills appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program. The congressman also reiterated his earlier prediction that "there definitely are the votes" for the House to impeach the President. He said he doubted that the tax issue would be included as one of the articles of impeachment.

Mills said he was apprehensive that a majority — but not the required two-thirds — of the Senate would vote to convict Nixon. Such an outcome, he said, "would be very damaging" to the country and "at that point consideration must be given by him to the point of view that he resign."

House Minority Leader John B. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said Sunday he thought Nixon had not been treated justly on the tax issue, saying the President's attorneys should have been allowed a chance to argue against the findings of the congressional panel. The President, however, had previously promised to abide by the committee's results, which coincided closely with those of the IRS itself.

Rhodes was on NBC's "Meet the Press."

British Clear Canal

Cairo (UPI) — Four British "mine hunters" arrived in Port Said at the Suez Canal's northern end to take part in clearing the waterway of mines and other explosives, the Middle East News Agency said.

Oil Found Off Wales

London (AP) — The Sunday Express said an immensely rich new oilfield, believed even larger than those already located in the North Sea, has been found off the southwest coast of Wales.

D'Estaing's party is allied with the Gaullists but he is a personal rival of Chaban-Delmas. Edgar Faure, twice premier and now president of the National Assembly, insists that he will not back out of his declared candidacy despite enormous pressures. This means that the right will probably present three contenders to the voters on May 5 against a single contender from the left — Socialist Party chief Francois Mitterand.

5% Penalty Not Affirmed

Washington — Donald C. Alexander, commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, refused to say yes or no Sunday when asked if the $432,787.13 owed in back taxes by President Nixon may have included a negligence penalty of 5%. Under sharp questioning on the television program "Face the Nation," Alexander declined repeatedly to say whether such a penalty had been assessed. He based his refusal to answer on the principle of confidentiality between IRS and the taxpayer. But he did not invoke that principle when he said there had been no fraud penalty assessed against the President. (More on Page 2.)

Some Deductions Said Ordered

Los Angeles — President Nixon's tax advisers were ordered by the White House to take some of the deductions from his taxable income that were later declared improper by congressional investigators, according to Arthur Blech, the President's personal accountant. "It was taken 100% of that and take 50% of that," Blech said in an interview. He said he understood that the instructions had come from John W. Dean III, John D. Ehrlichman, and other former principal aides to Nixon.

Special Fund Agreement Fails

Geneva — The members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, whose representatives are meeting in Geneva, decided to set up a special fund to help poorer developing countries, but they failed to agree on how much money to contribute. The lack of agreement reflected a political split within the 12-nation group. Iran, Venezuela and Algeria sponsored the fund, but Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and other Arab countries resisted.

Col. Khadafy Still Undisputed Leader

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Diplomatic and government sources said Sunday that Col. Moammar Khadafy remains the undisputed leader of Libya despite reports elsewhere in the Middle East that he has been stripped of power.

The state news media told Libyans Sunday that Khadafy had turned over some of his duties to Premier Abdel Salam Jalloud, confirming reports which first were published Saturday. But a spokesman for the state agency said Khadafy remained in control of the oil-rich nation.

And the sources said the largely ceremonial duties which Jalloud would assume should not affect Khadafy's position of power.

"It doesn't look like Khadafy's lost any power except handing over some functions such as meeting and greeting dignitaries to Jalloud," said a Western diplomat in Tripoli. But he cautioned that it may take some weeks to fully assess the developments.

Usually well-informed newspapers elsewhere in the Middle East said Saturday that Khadafy, who has threatened to resign a number of times when he was displeased, had been pushed aside.

The authoritative newspaper

An Nahar, published in Beirut, said there was "a coup against Khadafy, with his consent." It said the majority of the ruling Revolutionary Command Council was disturbed "by Khadafy's whimsical policies that created negative results on the Arab and international scene." It cited as an example Khadafy's abortive attempt to merge Libya with Tunisia.

Questions about Khadafy's status came following issuance of a decree by the Revolutionary Command Council. It was first made public Saturday in a dispatch by Egypt's official Middle East News Agency.

Libya's official news agency said portions of the decree were first published Sunday in Tripoli newspapers. The decree said: "The Revolutionary Command Council has issued a decree under which Col. Moammar Khadafy is to devote himself to ideological and intellectual work and to the popular authorization without prejudice to his functions of the commander-in-chief of the armed forces."

Khadafy reportedly is in Tripoli. The capital was calm and there were no signs over the weekend of any unusual activity. Telephone communications between Europe and Libya were operating normally.

Post Reporters Reveal Name Of Secret Source

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Washington Post reporters who pieced together major Watergate stories say that Hugh W. Sloan Jr., onetime treasurer of President Nixon's re-election committee, was a major source of information for them.

Sloan's role and that of a highly placed administration source, whom the reporters call "Deep Throat," are described by Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward in their forthcoming book, "All the President's Men." Excerpts appear in the May and June issues of Playboy magazine.

The Washington Post won a Pulitzer prize in 1973 for its investigation of Watergate, almost all of which was done by Bernstein and Woodward.

Many of the Post's stories were developed by persevering on leads bypassed by government investigators and other newsmen, the articles say, but crucial confirmation often came from a handful of sources including Sloan.

In a parenthetical aside, the authors note that Sloan was never identified as a source in Post stories, but that he has now agreed to allow the disclosure of his name. Sloan declined on Sunday to comment on the Playboy excerpts, although he had read the article.

The book will be published by Simon & Schuster on June 18. A spokeswoman for Playboy said the magazine paid $30,000 for the right to excerpt 25,000 words, or about a quarter of the total.

It was from Sloan, former treasurer of the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, that Woodward and Bernstein said they first learned the names of several key controllers of a secret GOP fund for financing campaign activities against the Democrats.

The article also describes a number of clandestine meetings between Woodward and a member of the executive branch, not identified by name but dubbed "Deep Throat."

"Deep Throat" had access to information at the White House, Justice, the FBI and re-election committee, the article says. "The man's position in the executive branch was extremely sensitive."

Woodward had known "Deep Throat" since long before Watergate. The reporter said of his source: "Deep Throat never tried to inflate his knowledge. He was, inconspicuously, an incurable gossip, careful to label rumor for what it was, but fascinated by it."

At one of their sessions, "Deep Throat" described to Woodward President Nixon's outraged reaction to news leaks about Watergate.

"Nixon was wild, shouting and hollering that, 'We can't have it and we're going to stop it. I don't care how much it costs.'"

Woodward also asked "Deep Throat" about President Nixon's decision to submit L. Patrick Gray's name to the Senate for confirmation as J. Edgar Hoover's successor as FBI director.

"Deep Throat" replied: "In early February, Gray went to the White House and said, in effect, 'I'm taking the rap on Watergate.' He got very angry and said he had done his job and contained the investigation judiciously, that it wasn't fair that he was being singled out to take the heat. He implied that all hell could break loose if he wasn't able to stay on the job permanently and keep the lid on."

"Nixon could have thought this was a threat, though Gray is not that sort of guy. Whatever the reason, the President agreed in a hurry and sent Gray's name up to the Senate right away."

Concerning the government's probe, Bernstein and Woodward wrote: "In the biggest, most wide-ranging investigation since the assassination of President Kennedy, the FBI didn't even call the numbers" found in the Watergate defendants' address books.

One night "Deep Throat" told Woodward about the intelligence gathering activities of the Committee to Re-elect the President.

"... A lot of the intelligence gathering was routine. They are not brilliant guys, but it got out of hand. That is the key phrase, the feeling that it all got out of hand. Much of the intelligence gathering was on their own campaign contributors."

IRS May Order Dogs' Fare Paid

Washington (UPI) — Every president's dogs have their day, and now is the time for President Nixon's three pets.

The Internal Revenue Service and Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., want to know how often King Timahoe the setter, Vicki the poodle and Pasha the terrier have flown gratis aboard Air Force 1, with an eye to possibly making the President pay their fares.

"But how else could those dogs travel?" a White House official asked plaintively.

Kenneth W. Gemmill and H. Chapman Rose, attorneys for the President, told Sen. Long, in a letter dated April 1, that no other president ever has been charged for the travel of his family's pets aboard official aircraft, and that they therefore saw no reason for such charges to be exacted from Nixon.

They might also have recalled the allegations in 1944, that President Franklin D. Roosevelt had sent a destroyer at a cost of several million tax dollars to the Aleutian Islands to fetch his scottie, Fala, allegedly stranded there.

Roosevelt played it for laughs. "Republican leaders have not been content with attacks on me, or my wife, or on my sons," Roosevelt told a Teamster's dinner in Washington on Sept. 23, 1944. "No, not content with that, they now include my little dog, Fala."

"Well, of course, I don't resent attacks... but Fala does resent them. I have a right to resent, to object to libelous statements about my dog."

President Lyndon B. Johnson had doggy trouble, too, when he picked up his hounds by their ears, and persons who knew less about canines than did the tall Texan alleged he was being cruel to them.

A dog named Freckles travelled on the campaign trail with presidential aspirant Robert F. Kennedy, causing him a degree of embarrassment by leaving a deposit in a hotel lobby.

And, of course, this is not the first time President Nixon has had dog difficulty.

In his campaign for the vice presidency in 1952, Nixon came under fire for accepting contributions from various Republicans for personal political expenses.

Nixon went on the air to expose his entire financial situation. The speech was heavily emotional, with an ironic touch halfway through it, when he said he wanted everyone to know he had accepted the gift of a little cocker spaniel, which his two girls had named Checkers.

Newport News, Va. (UPI) — It took 12 tries and two bottles, but Anne Armstrong finally smashed a bottle of champagne over the bow of the submarine.

Kalmbach: 'No Comment' On Stories

By The Associated Press

Herbert W. Kalmbach declined Sunday to confirm or deny published reports that C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo told him he had given money intended as political contributions to President Nixon's brothers and personal secretary.

The reports, published by the Washington Post and New York Times, quoted sources as saying Kalmbach testified under oath to the Senate Watergate committee about a conversation with Rebozo. Those stories quoted the sources as saying that Kalmbach said Rebozo told him that he, Rebozo, had given part of a secret cash contribution to F. Donald Nixon and Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's secretary.

The Times' story also included Edward Nixon as an alleged recipient of the money.

"The only response I can make is no comment," Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal attorney, said in a telephone interview from his home in Newport Beach, Calif. "I'm sorry I can't be more helpful."

The Times quoted well-placed sources as saying Kalmbach told the Senate committee last month that Rebozo had asked him a year ago for advice about the $100,000 contribution received from Howard Hughes.

The money was returned last year.

It was not determined in the published reports whether the alleged transactions between Rebozo and the others were gifts or loans. The amount of money allegedly involved also was not mentioned.

Rebozo's attorney, William S. Frates, said his client flatly denied the Kalmbach statements. The Times said Rebozo had also made the denial under oath before the Watergate committee.

Kalmbach was quoted as saying that Rebozo said he had a problem because the Internal Revenue Service was investigating whether to treat the campaign contribution from Hughes as income for Rebozo.

Donald Nixon was quoted as denying having received any such money.

"Mr. Rebozo never offered me any money at any time," Nixon was quoted as saying in a telephone interview. "I never asked him for any money and never at any time received any money from Mr. Rebozo."

Nixon said he was "outraged and extremely angered" by the reports.

Miss Woods has testified that Rebozo gave her no money, the reports said, and her attorney said over the weekend that his client had never borrowed, or received any money from Rebozo "in any shape or form."

Edward Nixon was not available for comment.

The money in question was received by Rebozo in two $50,000 installments in 1969 and 1970. The cash, in $100 bills, was kept in a safe deposit box in Rebozo's Florida bank. He testified that he returned all of it in June 1973.

According to Kalmbach's reported testimony, Rebozo summoned him to a meeting in the White House basement on April 30, 1973 and said he was doing so at the request of the "big man," the President.

Rebozo told Kalmbach that he had "used" the money for Nixon's brothers and Miss Woods. Kalmbach reportedly testified that he advised Rebozo to "make a clean breast of it."

The Times sources-based report said Kalmbach testified that he met Rebozo several months later and that Rebozo said he had been "all wrong" about the earlier conversation. It said Kalmbach testified that Rebozo told him that he had found all the $100 bills in their original wrappers.

President Nixon has said that he never knew about the contribution until Rebozo decided to return it. He said he had full confidence in Rebozo.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Not since the "victory garden" days of World War II has there been such planting fever as you see among people at the moment. The growing of produce seems to be on almost everyone's mind as he contemplates the high price of things in the grocery stores.

Many of you are among those who will be turning over the soil very soon now and placing various seeds and plants into the ground. And many of you will be doing so with little memory of past experiences. Luckily, time has a way of making us forget the unpleasant things of the past.

How else could we bring ourselves to set out tomato plants? Oh, you can read the material put out by various seed or plant food distributors but that really is not all that encouraging. It is a little like assembling the bicycle on Christmas Eve — it sounds easy but it turns out otherwise.

A brochure on tomato-growing starts out by telling you how the rank amateur can grow this fruit. If you have failed at everything else, you can succeed with tomatoes. Thus encouraged, you read on.

That is your first mistake. First up for discussion is the variety of plant to put out. This leaves you thoroughly confused as it ends up with so many considerations that you can't straighten the whole thing out.

Then, there are the details of caring for the plants. Too much water causes one kind of problem and not enough water causes another. It's the same with too much sun or too much shade. Pruning the plants has its advantages but can produce some unwanted side effects.

There are conditions under which the flowers of the plants will properly pollinate and produce fruit, and conditions under which this won't happen. And there are things you can do to encourage it if you know what is going on.

There are insects and diseases that strike at various times and call for as many different remedies. Some soils will encourage certain problems while other soils bring on different headaches. Too much fertilizer is bad and so is too little.

By the time you have finished the brochure, you know one thing for sure. If tomatoes are the easiest thing to grow, you had better not try anything else. Obviously, there are two roads to success in growing tomatoes — having a Ph.D. in horticulture or being plain-out lucky.

If time has not completely distorted your sense of reality, you may begin to recall some of the disasters that befell you in the past. Remember the tomato plants that grew into magnificent vines? They approached what an arborist might classify as a specimen but, unfortunately, they contained few tomatoes.

Then, there was the year when the vines and the fruit seemed to be in pretty good balance. But did the fruit ripen into plump, juicy tomatoes? No, it developed a huge split from one end to the other and a nasty scar on the bottom.

Or, there was the year that, for some unknown reason, everything went right — up to the point of picking the fruit. Just about the time the fruit was ready to pick, a worm or some other insect would bore a big hole through it.

There are natural enemies, of course, of just about anything you plant in the ground with the intention of harvesting. Squirrels, birds and rabbits eat better out of the gardens than the people who plant them.

Cooking a pot of beans taken from your own back yard appeals to your natural instincts, all right, but whether it fits with the urban life you have cultivated is another question.

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

Public Attitudes Show Reversal

WASHINGTON — Setting aside the slim possibility that belated federal prosecution may strain Sixth Amendment guarantees of a speedy trial, the indictment of eight Ohio National Guardsmen for the 1970 Kent State shootings is a worrisome sign of disturbing times.

Presumably the indictments stand "up." They accuse the Guardsmen of violating civil rights, an easy catch-all for political prosecution. Four years ago, when nervous young gun-toting Guardsmen tangled with screaming, rock-throwing students, the guns went off and several students were killed. In the climate that prevailed then, the weight of public opinion was probably on the side of the National Guard. Campus unrest was an established provocation; its capacity for violence was clearly established.

Since Watergate, things have changed. Although it is arguable whether the outlook of the average American has shifted much, for the moment, that doesn't matter. Liberal opinion-makers are in charge and their ideas of law-enforcement and justice are precisely opposite of those that prevailed during the 1969-70 period.

Look at what's been going on in the last year. First, the aborted trial of Daniel Ellsberg, and a subsequent wave of hero worship confirmed by scores of fashionable parties and campus salutes. Then there's the increasing attempt, via books and TV documentaries, to rehabilitate executed Soviet spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Alger Hiss has been cleared up, too, and we must wonder who'll be next.

In my opinion, this shift is a clear and obvious corollary of the Watergate-Impeachment Syndrome. The more that Richard Nixon comes undone, the more the Left wants — and feels free — to take advantage to exonerate Ellsbergs, Hisses, Rosenbergs and campus agitators. And at the same time, vague conspiracy, perjury and other statutes once used against Hisses, Rosenbergs and Ellsbergs are being turned against National Guardsmen, government officials, businessmen and the President of the United States.

Put the whole turnaround in context, and it is really quite extraordinary. Twenty years ago, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were hated spies; violent campus demonstrators were candidates for dismissal. National Guardsmen were returned Korean War heroes, and sale of U.S. embassies abroad to rich political contributors was harmlessly obvious enough to generate the musical "Call Me Madam." And today? Now fashionable liberals want to rehabilitate the Rosenbergs, throw the burden of campus rioting onto the National Guard and turn the sale of ambassadors into another ground for impeaching the President.

Some analysts and pollsters feel that public opinion is in tune with this direction. Louis Harris says that people are now much more afraid of corrupt, power-hungry Washington officials than campus demonstrators or Soviet spies. Perhaps. But I'd be willing to make a large bet that the American people don't like the idea of puffing up spies and demonstrators hand-in-hand with turning the political prosecution processes against government officials, businessmen and the military.

Which leads me to a last point: Impeaching and convicting Richard Nixon is not a simple process, legally or politically. Its corollary effects are far-reaching — and disturbing.

"Ho hum — Just another citizen taking a write-off on $576,000 in assorted papers, with a little back-dating on the deed"

Washing Police Linen

City Councilman John Robinson thinks there should be a change in the procedure used to dispose of citizen complaints against the Lincoln Police Department. Although believing that the department generally does a good job, in its handling of people Robinson is concerned that the complaint investigation procedure is not sufficiently independent of police personnel.

Presently, a citizen with a grievance against the police can take his case directly to the mayor, who can refer it to the Police Board of Examiners, or it can be channeled to the Police Internal Affairs office for processing. Since the time the board of examiners was created almost two years ago, it has handled only six or seven complaints. The majority are investigated by and corrective action, if required, taken through the internal affairs office by Police Inspector Dale Adams.

Robinson believes that although there are not a great many complaints against the police, the procedure should be changed to include more citizen oversight. He would replace the three-member (two lay, one police representative) board of examiners with a five-member (four lay members, one police representative) Police Review Board. And if we read him correctly, he is also suggesting a diminished role for the Police Internal Affairs office.

But Police Chief Joe Carroll, who has been a powerful figure at City Hall, likes the present system.

He was quoted last week as saying "we're in the best position to wash our own linens." He noted that both the legal and medical professions have associations which police their own ranks. When lawyers and doctors accept lay-citizen disciplinary committees, the police will be willing to do the same, Carroll suggested.

The chief fails to take note of one obvious distinction between the legal and medical professions and law enforcement.

Citizens can hire the doctor or lawyer of their choice. But they don't have a choice of who might arrest them. The police are public employees, paid by the taxpayers. And they also have enormous power over the public.

A system by which citizens can review the activities of a powerful agency they pay for and are subject to is not asking too much.

The Michigan Gamble

Robert Traxler, the Democratic candidate for the House seat from Michigan's 8th Congressional District, figures he knows why President Nixon decided to come to the district in person this Wednesday and campaign for Republican James Sparling Jr.

Traxler at the moment is the acknowledged favorite in this month's special election contest, with Sparling trailing far behind in private polls taken by the Democrats and a solid 8 percentage points below Traxler according to samples taken by the GOP organization.

The Democrat reasons, and it makes sense, that the President believes he will be blamed in any case if Sparling goes down to the defeat that is predicted for him. If the President does not personally campaign for Sparling, he might lose and if he does, the GOP candidate might lose with the President taking the blame. So why not take the gamble and go out to Michigan in hopes that Sparling will edge past Traxler and make Nixon look better, if not good, in the process?

Many leading Republicans are biting their nails over the President's temerity. He is going to a district — at least he is scheduled to go — where recent polls show him to be immensely unpopular, with many voters incensed over scandal and his taxes and even more out of sorts because of the economic and energy situations.

But the President is a known political gambler. He is encouraged by the fact that there has not been a furious reaction to the reports on the taxes he owes and, knowing that he will be blamed either way if Sparling loses, he is hoping for a long shot GOP win which he would have helped to fashion. It would help immeasurably to temper the political storm raging against him.

This first campaign swing through hostile territory is a gutsy show indeed.

TOM WICKER

The Nixon Precedent

NEW YORK — Maybe Gerald Warren, the White House spokesman, is right about the public attitude toward Richard Nixon's tax problems. Nixon has promised to pay the more than $400,000 the Internal Revenue Service says he owes in back taxes, and Warren said that he thought "most people in this country will consider it a closed case."

Well, it is true that neither the I.R.S. nor the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which also found Nixon heavily in arrears, alleged any fraudulent action on his part.

From here, nevertheless, Warren sounds like a man whistling past the graveyard. Richard Nixon, after all, is the President of the United States. He is under the heavy threat of impeachment already. And he did not owe a few thousand or even tens of thousands of dollars, but nearly a half-million.

It may well be, for instance, that the absence of a fraud allegation and the promised repayment by Nixon make it unlikely that the House Judiciary Committee will include a tax evasion charge in any impeachment resolution it may write. But that does not mean that Nixon's tax returns will not play a major part in the impeachment matter.

Income taxes, after all, are a burden with which every American — all but a handful of very rich and very poor — is intimately acquainted. The report on Nixon's tax debt came just as millions of them were making out their own returns against the April 15 deadline. Most of them are doing so honestly and with a high degree of accuracy. Many of them know that Nixon's problem was caused not only by disallowed deductions, but also by his failure to report income from several sources.

Whether or not they think Nixon had an intent to defraud, will they not think that a president, particularly one with an array of private attorneys and accountants as well as the entire federal apparatus at his beck and call, could hardly get $476,000 in arrears without cutting a lot of corners and stretching a lot of points?

The guess here is that millions of taxpayers will think just that — and that millions more will believe that Nixon tried to cheat, whether the I.R.S. charged him with it or not. To the extent that those public attitudes make themselves felt in Congress, and are shared by members of the House, it is that much more likely that Nixon will be impeached on any other charges that the Judiciary Committee may bring.

This raises a serious concern, recently stated by Stewart Alsop in a column in Newsweek Magazine. Alsop, expressing considerable disdain for Nixon, nevertheless took the view that a president ought to be impeached only for criminal offenses. The theory that a president can be impeached for great abuses of the powers of his office, Alsop believes, "could lead to the destruction of any president who was sufficiently hated and who was forced out by a Congress heavily dominated by the opposition."

This possibility ought to be of real and serious concern to those now considering impeachment; and no doubt it is. On the other hand, the Nixon case itself — not least the tax matter — lends considerable reassurance on this point.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

Maybe an apology is in order. But "maybe" is the controlling word since the subject is the Legislature.

The conditions which exist as this column is being written may change today. . . then change again.

But present legislative ground rules say the Unicameral will quit this week on its 60th day in session.

And that means that its major budget decisions may be abandoned to gubernatorial veto powers.

And that also means that most — and it could be all — of its remaining enactments will be abandoned to the governor's veto powers.

Now, this is going to get a little complicated, so turn to something else in the paper if you don't want to get into it quite so deeply.

Today is the Legislature's 57th day in session. Any bills which are not processed today for final reading could not be submitted to a final vote before the 60th and final day in session.

That means those bills would be left behind for Governor Exon to sign or veto as he pleased.

Bills which are finally processed today could not be put to a vote until the 59th day in session. They should include the two major pending budget bills — the largest of four operational appropriations measures and the mainline capital construction budget package.

Already on final reading is LB1053, another major budget measure.

Those budget bills are subject to line item vetoes by the governor. A week's recess between the 59th and 60th days in session would assure the Legislature of the final word on the size of those budgets through the exercise of its veto override powers.

Exon says he will attempt to send his vetoes back to the

Don Walton

Legislature for action prior to final adjournment, but that may be impossible.

If some senators are playing politics on the budget issue — and, be assured, some are — they could hold the big appropriations bills for final reading on the 60th day, adjourn, and leave the issue in Exon's hands.

Those of you who are still with me, here comes the apology.

Last week, this column suggested that the Legislature may have recovered its personhood and made progress toward re-establishing itself as an equal branch of state government.

But, if the Legislature, in its rush to go home, abandons its budget bills and most of its other late legislation to the governor's veto powers, it will have proved me wrong. And I apologize for misleading you.

The Appropriations Committee devoted three months of long hard work to developing a state budget which its members believe is necessary and reasonable.

The Legislature itself has spent hours and hours in floor debate on the budget, adding amendments here and there, but not adding much money. (Major money additions, in fact, were those attached to LB997, a budget bill which has already become law.)

It was, in fact, the long budget debates on the floor which backed up other legislation and resulted in last Wednesday's marathon flood of legislative action designed to allow other bills to meet the 60-day deadline.

Now, it would seem, the whole operation has been a sham.

The Legislature seems ready to allow the governor to write the budget himself through the use of his item veto powers, without even sticking around to defend its product.

That really is not so different from last year's legislative decision to throw away the Appropriations Committee's budget and accept the governor's document, without change.

Those are not the actions of a co-equal, responsible branch of state government.

There is no intention here of suggesting that the Legislature's budget is better, or worse, than that proposed by the governor. Nor is there any suggestion that the governor's budget vetoes should all be overridden — or sustained.

There is a suggestion that the Legislature should finish its work, that it should stand in defense of its product, and at least hang around long enough to judge the governor's work.

The constitution gives the Legislature the last word on vetoes. If the Legislature chooses not to accept that responsibility, it abdicates one of its major handles of power.

A Legislature which throws away its powers is not filled with personhood or courage or strength.

If senators decide to take a recess before their 60th day in session, they will have the opportunity to consider gubernatorial vetoes of the major budget bills and of all legislation enacted by the 59th day.

Or if they would extend the 60-day session by a day or two, they could consider vetoes of any and all bills enacted by the 1974 Legislature.

They are not going to do the latter. But if they do the former, they will have stood their ground on the budget, and the apology will no longer be in order.

JACK ANDERSON

Traveling Companions

WASHINGTON — Classified State Department cables report that Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., has been escorting a South Korean entrepreneur in search of oil deals around the Middle East.

The Korean businessman is Tongson Park, a patrician who owns the posh, exclusive Georgetown Club in Washington. Park frequently travels to the Middle East on behalf of a family-owned petroleum shipping and marketing firm called the Miryung Company.

Oil tycoons from all over the world are swarming over the Middle East in pursuit of Arab oil concessions. But the enterprising Park is the only one who has brought along a U.S. congressman to introduce him to the right people.

Hanna is Capitol Hill's premier globe-trotter. In January, he was gallivanting around the Far East "as a guest," he admitted to us, "of the Pertamina Oil Company," Indonesia's national oil firm. From Indonesia, he flew to the Middle East. Classified cables from the U.S. embassy in Sana, Yemen, pick up the story.

(Hanna) was joined here by a Mr. Park, a former South Korean national engaged in shipping, elaboration of foreign investment opportunities and apparently political lobbying in Washington.

For nearly three days, the pair flitted around Yemen meeting government and business leaders. A cable from Ambassador William Crawford informed the State Department:

"Congressman Hanna expressed an interest in meeting key (Yemen) development and financial officials and requested embassy facilities. This we did and during the two and one half days of his visit, he was introduced to ministers of Treasury, Economy, Development, Director of Central Planning Organization, political and legal advisers to President, and Governor of Central Bank. . . . Congressman had short amiable courtesy meeting with President Iryani, escorted by Ambassador."

Concluded Ambassador Crawford, "Rep. Hanna evinced a lively interest in Yemen and its problems. He and Mr. Park promised (Yemen) officials that they would engage themselves in an effort to bring American capital to Yemen. They expressed particular interest in contracts for mineral development and a joint shipping venture."

The two travelers then departed for Saudi Arabia and Egypt, where the record of their activities is more difficult to trace. Reports have reached us, however, of wheeling and dealing with the Saudis.

Again this month, the congressman and the Korean businessman will return to the Middle East. They will visit Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Although Tongson Park is not an official of any government, the State Department is arranging for his accommodations in the best hotels.

The engaging Park insisted to my associate Joe Spear that he and Hanna aren't promoting any business deals but just happen to be going to the Middle East at the same time. They travel together, said Park, because the congressman "is like my brother."

Hanna told us he and Park had talked to officials only at cocktail parties, not at formal meetings. The likable liberal acknowledged that he had promised Yemen officials he would encourage capital investment in their country, but he didn't "have anyone in mind," he said. As for the "joint shipping venture," Hanna insisted "I don't know what the ambassador is talking about."

The patent lobby is using chain letters to fight reform of the patent system. It was started by Vincent Gregory, president of Rohm and Hass chemical firm, who wrote his employees and his 20 main competitors urging them to bombard the Senate with letters similar to his.

Prices at the supermarket are continuing a steady climb. Yet the wholesale prices of many foods are dropping. It's not too difficult to discover where the housewives' extra dollars are going.

Beef on the hoof, for example, has dropped nearly $8 per hundred weight and pork has gone down $9 since January.

Yet Missouri Beef, one of the nation's largest meat packers, has seen profits zoom a fantastic 255% in the last quarter. Iowa Beef, another giant, rang up a 39% increase in profits, and General Host, the owner of Swift Meats, recorded a 43% rise.

Nor are the supermarkets suffering.

The losers are not only the consumers but the farmers. Agriculture Department sources tell us that feed grains are so high that some cattlemen are losing $150 to $200 a head. The grain giants, of course, are doing quite well, thank you.

In short, the processors and retailers are paying less but charging more for food, and then pocketing the difference. The prices that the shoppers pay remain high, therefore, while the prices the farmers receive are low.

Poll: Nixon Standing Rises Five Points

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Nixon's over-all standing with the American people has risen five points to 31% positive since he embarked on his stepped-up television and radio campaign. During the past month, Nixon has engaged in a heavy schedule of public exposure in many parts of the country, holding press conferences, open sessions, and making speeches. Prior to this, he had reached his all-time low of 26% positive.

The President, however, is by no means out of the woods. One bottom line indication that the President is still in real trouble emerged when by 49-34%, a plurality of the people agreed with the statement that "when all of the investigations and crises have finished, President Nixon will be found to have

CARMICHAEL

DON'T WORRY---IF I'M CHAIRMAN I'LL KEEP THE MEETING UNDER CONTROL---

Louis Harris
Integrity Questioned

violated the law, as was true with Vice President Agnew." Back in February, the public felt the same way, but by a much closer 43-38%.

On a whole spate of separate readings, the President's standing is heavily weighted on the negative side:

—By 48-39%, a plurality does not feel that Richard Nixon "is a man of high integrity," precisely the same division that existed in February.

—By 80-16%, four in every five people give him low marks on the way he has "handled the Watergate case." This showing is only marginally better than the 81.13% negative rating he received in February.

—By 80-15%, the President is rated negatively on his "handling of the Watergate tapes," again only slightly better than the 81-12% negative standing he had in February.

—By 83-12%, he is given negative marks on his "handling of corruption in government," almost identical to the 83-10% negative rating he received in February.

Perhaps most telling of all is the fact that when asked about his ability to inspire confidence, by 78-15% the public gives him negative marks, the lowest point yet recorded in a Harris Survey since Nixon assumed office in 1969. The cross section of 1,495 households across the nation was asked between March 24 and 29:

"How would you rate President Nixon on inspiring confidence personally in the White House — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

	Good-Excellent	Only Fair	Poor	Not Sure
March, 1974	15	78	7	0
Feb.	15	77	8	0
Jan.	17	78	5	0
Nov., 1973	18	76	6	0
March	38	50	12	0
Feb.	48	41	11	0

Despite the lack of any gain in engendering personal confidence, nonetheless the President's over-all job rating has risen five points since early March:

"How would you rate the job President Nixon is doing as President — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

	Good-Excellent	Only Fair	Poor	Not Sure
OVER-ALL NIXON JOB RATING
Late March, 1974	31	66	3	0
Early March	26	71	3	0
Feb.	29	68	3	0
Jan.	30	68	2	0
Nov., 1973	37	61	2	0
Oct.	32	64	4	0
July	42	54	4	0
June	48	49	3	0
Feb.	38	59	1	0

This latest survey reflects a pickup in Nixon's standing of five points over-all, and a commensurate five points in the way he has handled the Middle East situation and in his easing of the energy shortage. He has also picked up four points from 29% to 33% positive in his TV speeches and press conferences.

But the gnawing doubts about Watergate still surround him and there has been little if any movement on this score. Perhaps most symptomatic of all was the result of this question, asked periodically in Harris Surveys:

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Monday

With Uranus in the Fifth House, the native is impulsive, falls in and out of love quickly, an emotional child, often terminates education due to unusual circumstances, is creative but can be sidetracked by eccentric member of opposite sex. The desires of this native are considered out-of-the-ordinary, the wishes are fulfilled due to an amazing chain of events. Elements of timing, luck, acclaim and publicity accompany this person as almost constant companions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis is on agreement regarding money, savings, investments. Be careful about interpretations, intentions. Promises now can be sincere but lack substance. Know it and protect assets. Get something on hold up under scrutiny.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Defer to judgment of mate, close associate. You know what should be done, but require cooperation of another in order to implement plans. Utilize lessons learned in past. Be patient. Time now is on your side.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Finish what you start. Leaving job half done would be an error. Aries, Libra persons could aid in advertising, distribution. Concentrate on basic issues, improve services. Highlight displays. Proper lighting is more important than usual.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect coincides now with change, creativity, unusual dealings with member of opposite sex. You can imprint style. Individuality is emphasized. Leo figures prominently. Figure out publicity campaign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Co-operate with Cancer. Build on solid base. Improve domestic conditions. Fulfill family obligations. Follow through on lunch. Teach and learn. Avoid needless brooding. Get off sidelines and into game. Older person does have your best interests at heart.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent is on short journeys, communications with neighbors, relatives. Social activity increases. Remember recent diet, health resolutions. Give thought to nutritional requirements. Sagittarian could be involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis is on collecting, studying details, being thorough enough to plug loopholes. Debts are paid, collected. You also add to possessions. You get estimate which pleases you. You may be worth more than is apparent on surface.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lunar cycle is high; personality shines. Get going. Be independent, a self-starter. Highlight new contacts, originality, creativity. Shake off lethargy. What you feared proves to be a paper tiger. Gemini, Virgo can aid in bringing about constructive changes.

"When all of the investigations and crises have finished, do you think that President Nixon will be found to have violated the law, as was true of Vice President Agnew, or don't you think this will happen?"

WILL NIXON BE FOUND TO HAVE VIOLATED THE LAW?

	Yes	No	Not Sure
March, 1974	49	34	17
Feb.	43	38	19
Jan.	47	37	16
Nov., 1973	44	34	22
Oct.	39	36	25

While the American people have suspected right along that Nixon will be found guilty of having "violated the law," the margin now has reached its largest proportions, although still below a majority of the public.

The net impact of his recent flurry of public exposures has been to impress people that he is trying and to give him higher marks on the general conduct of his office, but the underlying troubles of doubt and suspicion about his integrity and ultimate guilt regarding Watergate still remain as strong as ever.

Ethiopian Rebels Ask Resignation

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Rebel troops took over a government radio station in eastern Ethiopia Sunday and demanded the resignation of the country's deputy chief of staff.

The official Ethiopian news agency quoted Defense Ministry sources as saying the officer, Lt Gen Haile Bakedagne, complied.

The radio in Harar, 230 miles east of Addis Ababa, said the Eastern Command had imposed a curfew until further notice "because of corrupt and criminal officials still in power in Ethiopia."

The broadcast said that the troops' action had nothing to do with the government nor was it directed against the people.

"It is our duty as members of the armed forces to see to it that the criminals in power are brought to justice," Radio Harar said, identifying itself as "The Voice of the Ethiopian Eastern Command."

The radio said to this end the Eastern Command had called on the government for the resignation of the deputy chief of staff.

The radio mentioned the demonstrations in provincial Ethiopian towns last week when the government was urged to fire provincial governors and other top officials for corruption and neglect.

The troops in Harar did not say what other action they intended taking. At the end of their brief announcement about the curfew and corruption, the radio resumed its normal program.

Ethiopia has been rocked by weeks of army unrest and student demonstrations. There is also widespread suffering among the population because of a prolonged drought.

More than a month of military mutinies, strikes and civilian disorders have robbed 81-year-old Emperor Haile Selassie of most of his autocratic powers.

After dismissing one cabinet at the end of February, Selassie and the new government had to promise broad constitutional reforms leading to a more democratic regime, military pay raises costing the shaky economy $17 million, and costlier wage hikes to civilian workers protesting the rising cost of living and wages as low as $15 a month.

Two weeks ago, the unrest spread from the cities to the countryside in a series of riots by peasants demanding "land to the tillers" and the dismissal of corrupt provincial officials.

The police and army responded with gunfire, and many peasants were either killed or wounded in various parts of the country.

Design Aid Given By UNL Students

About 20 University of Nebraska-Lincoln students from the College of Architecture are providing design and planning assistance at the Omaha Community Design Center (CDC) this semester.

The CDC program gives 4th and 5th year architecture students broad exposure to urban problems and practice in working directly with community groups which would otherwise be unable to work with existing professional consultants.

Current CDC projects include planning of a playground for Lake Charles Day Care Center, a multi-purpose center at 31st and Parker Sts., continuation of housing studies and proposals for Conestoga and Lake Charles neighborhoods, a proposal for the conversion of Booth Memorial Hospital in behalf of the Comprehensive Health Association of Omaha, and a MAPA/Riverfront funded in-depth analysis and proposal for recreation/culture facilities in North Omaha.

Thus far, nearly 100 students have participated in more than 30 CDC projects ranging from storefront and sign rehabilitation to proposals and justifications for major community multi-service centers. Recently completed projects include the design and renovation of the interior of Kellom Community Center for Girls and the Calvin Ed-U-Care playground.

The CDC was developed two years ago as a joint effort of the College of Architecture, Urban Action of Omaha, and the Omaha Section of the American Institute of Architects (AIA). It is staffed primarily by architecture students and faculty.

The two faculty coordinators who oversee student work are Gordon Scholz and Roger Schluntz, of the NU College of Architecture.

According to Schluntz, the philosophy behind the CDC is to allow the community to more precisely define and develop their own needs. "The students quickly learn that they must work closely with people if their ideas are to be fulfilled," he said. "Besides working with the 'client' the realization that vast numbers in some communities have different attitudes and needs than the residents of typical Nebraska towns is a very real educational benefit.

"I can't help but think that this program will make students more accountable when they later become professionals involved with planning on large-scale design problems," he said.

Schluntz said that CDC's relationship with the community has been good, and while some problems exist, most residents appreciate the efforts of the students. "They realize that the students can only help in a marginal manner, yet many citizens have provided a lot of assistance to the individual education of many students.

"The community's patience and understanding have had more to do with the success of CDC than any great talent that we might bring to the center," he said.

CDC has been incorporated and is administered by a board of directors, nearly all of whom are Omaha residents, including the present chairman, Robert Moore. The board reviews and must accept any project that is undertaken in the community.

Schluntz said that one of the biggest current problems faced by CDC is funding. Recently, the telephone, electricity, gas and water for the center were disconnected for a brief period until the Omaha section of the AIA raised enough money to pay the bills through an emergency fund raising campaign.

"We don't like to present an image of the CDC being more prosperous than the rest of the community, and certainly aren't," Schluntz quipped.

The students and staff take these projects very seriously, he added. "One of the most disheartening aspects of the program is seeing very good proposals that the community and students have worked very hard to produce fail to receive funding," he said.

"Unfortunately, it's an experience many of the neighborhood groups have spent a lifetime learning," Schluntz said.

"But that's all part of it. The faculty realizes that there will be a next time. But for the student, it can be a major disappointment. The frustration of not being able to accomplish anything tangible is in itself a learning experience."

Berliners Uneasy Over Detente

BERLIN (AP) — Berlin, the Western oasis surrounded by East Germany, is feeling increasingly insecure as the winds of East-West detente blow across Europe.

A recent poll showed that West Berliners are more uneasy about their future than at any time since the Berlin Wall went up in 1961.

West German President Gustav Heinemann has warned that East Germany still wants to swallow West Berlin despite the four-power Berlin accord signed in 1972 by the victors of World War II — the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Although that agreement gave West Berliners free movement into and through East Germany — most importantly access to West Germany and across the wall to East Berlin — it also contains ambiguous wording and provides a document which both East and West can cite in claiming violations by the other side.

A West Berlin government source expressed doubt whether the continued presence of Western allies in the isolated city is "believable" now that Britain and France have recognized East Germany and the United States is negotiating a similar move. He said there is a real danger that the city will be ideologically undermined through an organized, well-financed Communist campaign.

A veteran French official asserted privately that once the three Western powers responsible for West Berlin since World War II — Britain, France and the United States — are firmly established diplomatically in East Berlin, their representations in West Berlin are certain to decrease in importance.

There also are fears, despite vehement official denials, that the Western allies may be considering allowing West Berlin to become a sort of free city, balanced between East and West while enjoying broadened Eastern trading contacts. Critics fear that such a loose arrangement would lead to virtual Eastern control of West Berlin.

The U.S. Ambassador to West Germany, Martin Hillenbrand, has stressed this possibility of increased trade ties between West Berlin and the Communist East that surrounds it, a development long wanted by the West but which the Communists have been holding up for the price of making West Berlin a separate political entity.

The four-power pact with its ambiguous wording has opened a Pandora's box of diplomatic troubles to plague Western leaders.

East Germany claims it will live up to the letter of the Berlin accord, but interprets the pact as meaning that West Berlin is not a part of West Germany. The West insists that the accord gives a green light to increased West Berlin-West Germany ties.

Certain West German political activity, such as the election of a president, is expressly forbidden by the agreement.

"Before the four-power agreement, we had a broad claim to be part of West Germany, even if it was nebulous at times," a West Berlin government source said. "Now our claims are specified and there will be endless quarreling over what we may or may not do."

North Ireland Calm; Bombs Hit England

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Bombings plagued England over the weekend but relative calm prevailed in Northern Ireland, prompting speculation that some terrorists were considering a truce.

A 21-year-old woman was shot to death in Belfast, but her killing was considered a casualty of an internal Protestant feud.

A powerful explosion in Manchester, England, on Saturday wounded three policemen, and two other large bombs went off in Birmingham without hurting anyone.

Earlier, 14 firebombs exploded in crowded London stores, but there were no casualties or major damage reported. Authorities said the explosives could have been planted by either Irish or Palestinian terrorists.

Warnings of the Manchester and Birmingham bombs were phoned by men with Irish accents. Four of the London firebombs exploded at Marks and Spencer stores. Company president Edward Steff, a prominent Jew, was shot last December by a suspected Palestinian.

Violence in Northern Ireland has taken at least 990 lives since 1969, but explosions began only recently in England. Since Christmas 66 bombs have killed 12 persons and wounded 106. All the dead and 14 of the wounded were the result of a military bus bombing.

An intense security operation in Northern Ireland bolstered by extra troops flown in from Britain was credited with forestalling any attempt at the kind of bombing campaign that a week ago caused $24 million worth of damage in Belfast, Bangor and other cities.

One reason given for the reduced tension in Northern Ireland is the British government's decision to legalize Sinn Fein, the political wing of Irish Republican Army Provisionals.

Sinn Fein leaders in Dublin expect to be able to negotiate openly with the British government for the first time since 1972. They want a "phased and orderly" withdrawal of British troops from Northern Ireland. They say a sudden withdrawal would lead to a bloodbath between feuding Roman Catholic and Protestant communities.

The British also have decided to lift the ban on the Ulster Volunteer Force, the IRA's Protestant counterpart. The UVF is opposed to the British plans for an Irish settlement.

Whether escalated fighting can be averted depends largely on the ability of Brian Faulkner, head of Belfast's provincial government, to persuade the Protestant majority that it is not being railroaded into union with the predominantly Catholic Irish republic.

London hopes to take some of the sting out of Irish partition by setting up a Council of Ireland, representing both the Belfast and Dublin governments. The intention is to persuade the Catholic minority in the north that its interests are being guarded by the Irish republic, which many Northern Ireland Catholics want to join.

Faulkner has said he would not ratify the Council of Ireland without proof that Dublin is cracking down on the IRA.

Relieves Tormenting Rectal Pain And Itch, Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

... Due to inflammation. Gives prompt, temporary relief from such burning itch and pain in many cases.

The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. But there is an exclusive formulation that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from this itch and pain so that the sufferer is more comfortable again. It also actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation and infection.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Mid-west Medical Center reported similar successful results in many cases. This is the same medication you can buy at any drug counter under the name Preparation H.

Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed surface area and it doesn't sting or smart. In fact, it has very soothing qualities which make it especially helpful during the night when itching becomes more intense.

There's no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

USDA Offices Up Customers

... With Cluster Arrangement

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Lancaster County cluster of U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) county offices is being held up as an example of how federal farm agencies should operate all across Nebraska. John Bowers, office manager of the county ASCS office, hopes to keep it that way.

"We want to get a central switchboard installed as soon as possible. This will keep us ahead of the state committee and it will provide us with extra telephone lines. Now when you call any of the offices you can get a busy signal, because each has one line. With more than one line and a central switchboard we can provide better service," he said.

The USDA in Washington, D.C., has issued guidelines to the states to get all the federal agencies in one county under one roof, preferably with a single entrance and a single telephone number with a receptionist.

The Lancaster County system, located on 48th St. just south of Hwy. 2, is in one building, but each office has its own entrance. It is easy to park in one spot in the large parking lot and walk to any or all of the offices.

The complex includes the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), which handles most farm programs; the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), which provides engineering assistance to farmers along with conservation services; and the Farmers Home Administration (FHA), which lends qualifying farmers money.

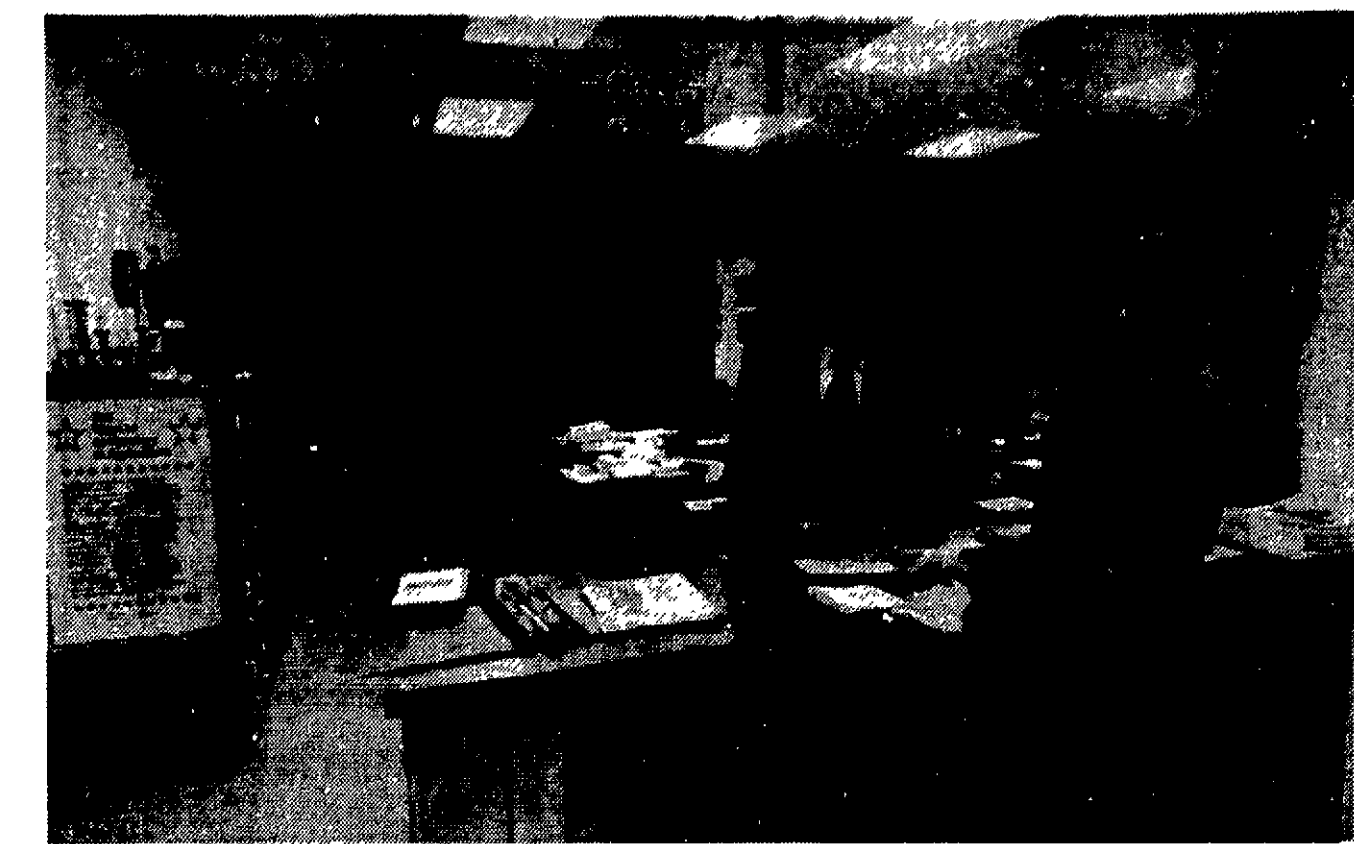

The Lancaster County Extension Service, with its farm agents and home agents, is located in the same building, which also houses a restaurant, a hobby shop and a number of other businesses.

More People

All offices in the complex have experienced an increase in the number of people stopping in to contact some officials, but the county extension office has nearly doubled its number of customers since it left the old federal court house which has no parking area.

"I think we are going to see even greater increases in the number of people who make use of the services that are available to them once they learn of the services and the ease of obtaining them," Bowers predicted.

In many counties the various offices are in different towns or at least in different areas of one town, forcing a farmer to spend the better part of a day getting forms filled out and projects such as dams and waterways approved.

"It used to take a half-day to get a dam approved in Lancaster County and now it can be done in 15 minutes. Farmers dislike hunting parking spots and don't like fighting traffic. I think they are going to like these central service centers when they get them," Bowers added.

Advice

Bowers has some advice for planners who come to see the Lancaster system. "A central entrance is fine but you must design your building so that each farmer dealing with any agency has some privacy. It is nobody's business but his if he has a problem with one of the agencies, and it is not the business of any other agency either," he said.

The guidelines being offered to county officials ask them to form committees to get the centers located and planned. The guidelines suggest that whenever possible the offices be no more than 45 minutes by all-weather road from any farm in the area served.

The various agencies are not talking about it for public consumption, but the people who work in the agencies are worried that the USDA wants to merge all the agencies into one single group.

In addition to the normal concern about their jobs and livelihood, there is real concern that the services to farmers will be cut back and that personnel administering the complex industry called agriculture will not be familiar enough with all aspects of the various programs.

Hot Potato

Another hot potato is the struggle between communities in a single county for the federal plum which does provide a number of jobs and some building rent to the community.

In many states and possibly in a few Nebraska counties, there is a possibility that the offices in two counties will be merged into a single office.

The hottest potato of all is the one the congressional delegation will be handed when they are asked to comment on the state plan to be developed by the state committee of USDA agency heads currently chaired by Kenneth Bowen, director of the Farmers Home Administration.

Officials feel the counties that have all the offices in a single town will be the first to get a central center, since the location problem is simpler there. It may be several years before the offices in every county will be in a central location, but state, federal and even county officials say it is going to happen. They are coming to Lincoln to see how it works.

Deputy Is Hit By Policeman's Shot

Bellevue (AP) — A Sarpy County deputy was reported in "serious but stable condition" Sunday at an Omaha hospital where he was taken after he was accidentally shot by a Bellevue policeman Saturday night.

Sarpy County Sheriff Patrick Thomas said Cpl. Darrell Zabrocki, 22, suffered a wound in the back when he was struck by a double-0 pellet from a shotgun. The pellet penetrated his right lung, Thomas said.

The deputy had answered a call to Bellevue store where a robbery was in progress and was pursuing a suspect on foot when he was struck, Thomas said.

He said a Bellevue policeman had fired three warning shots at two suspects fled from the scene. The suspects were not apprehended.

Thomas said he plans an investigation into the incident.

Demand For Adoption Said Topping Supply

Omaha (AP) — The director of the state's largest adoption agency says the demand for adoption is outstripping the supply of available children.

Harris Van Oort, director of the Nebraska Children's Home Society, estimated that 700 couples inquired about adoption last year. He said in previous years the total was between 400 and 500 inquiries.

Van Oort said the society placed 147 children in 1973. Since 1968, the peak year for placements, there has been a decline. He said 225 children were placed in a home that year.

He said, however, that handicapped children and teenagers are being adopted sooner.

Nebraska has not had as great a change in the numbers of unwed mothers who keep their babies as other parts of the country, he said.

About 70 to 75 per cent of unwed mothers still give up their babies in Nebraska, compared with as few as 50 per cent in other states, Van Oort said.

The increased availability of abortions and birth control also is a factor in the number of children available for adoption, he said.

Autopsy Ordered In Death

Homer (AP) — An autopsy has been ordered in the shooting death of Donald Clement, 17, of rural Dakota City.

His body was found Saturday morning by a fisherman at an Omaha Lake park about two miles northeast of Homer.

Dakota County Attorney Frank Kneiff said the boy died of a gunshot wound in the head. Clement was a senior at Homer High School.

The body was found in a car. Officials estimated the death occurred a few hours earlier.

U.S. 77 Closing Set On Monday

State Roads Director Tom Doyle has announced that beginning Monday U.S. 77 between Interstate 80 and Cornhusker Highway in Lincoln will be closed to all traffic to complete flooring on a bridge over Salt Creek.

The road will remain closed for about 10 days.

Pair Is Chosen By Ag Honorary

William "Bill" Krejci, well-known agricultural leader and farmer-feeder from Fairmont, and Dr. P. J. Cunningham, associate professor of animal science at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, have been named associate members of the NU chapter of Alpha Zeta.

The pair was honored at the undergraduate agricultural honorary fraternity's annual awards banquet Sunday evening at The Knolls.

The honorary associate memberships are given on the basis of outstanding contributions to agriculture.

Krejci is described as an outstanding farmer, livestock feeder and dedicated leader in community and agricultural organizations.

He is chairman of the Livestock Feeders Pollution Control Committee, an advisory group to the Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council. He is also chairman of the legislative committee of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association and has been active in the Nebraska Pork Producers Association.

Krejci was one of the leaders in the establishment of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at NU. He has served as chairman of the College of Agriculture and College of Home Economics Advisory Council.

The Nebraska Agribusiness Club also honored him last November for his public service to agriculture. The Krejci family was the 1969 Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star Honor farm family.

Dr. Cunningham received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Oklahoma State University, prior to joining the NU staff in 1968.

He has been called an active, creative researcher and a dedicated teacher, who is able to communicate with students and identify common ground in the objectives of the courses he teaches, and the goals of his students.

Dr. Cunningham is now serving as the vice chairman of the North Central Regional Research Technical Committee on Swine Breeding and Genetics. He also acts as the secretary of the Genetics Institute at NU.

In addition, Dr. Cunningham has served as an advisor to the NU Block and Bridge Club and is a member of Gamma Sigma Delta and Phi Kappa Phi honoraries.

Peru State Admissions Up Sharply

Peru (AP) — Admissions at Peru State College for students planning to begin their education next fall are up dramatically, school officials report.

Through April 1, admissions were up 44% over the same date in 1973.

Last year's admissions at the same point were up 30% over April 1, 1972, making Admissions Director Gary Hoemann doubly gratified.

Hoemann said last fall's freshman class was the largest since 1970, and that if the current trend continued, an even larger group would be on campus next fall.

The admissions figures reflect all new students applying at the school, including first-time freshmen and transfers.

"In a national situation of declining enrollments, last year's increase was considered phenomenal," Hoemann said.

Hoemann said officials were still awaiting fall registration for final results, but that the current admissions picture looked "extremely encouraging."

Center Says More Jobs Offered

More jobs were offered and there was a wider range of job opportunities reported to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Placement Center this year compared to last year, according to Frank Hallgren, NU director of career planning and director of the Placement Center.

"We have had a very successful year compared to a year ago," Hallgren said. "There

Consumer resistance to higher food prices is related to other higher prices that have resulted from the increased price being charged for oil by exporting nations.

Autos are regarded as a necessity by many families and the urge to travel in a car pool or on a bus to save gas is often frustrated by the need to have a car for transportation while doing your job.

Consumers faced with higher prices for everything are going to save wherever they can. This means eating cheaper foods, wearing last year's dress and making the car go another year.

The price of energy affects every product sold in the U.S. from oatmeal to this newspaper. The consumer is paying it.

The 55-mile-an-hour limit makes moving anything by truck more expensive because it tends to require more trucks to move the same amount of anything in a given period of time.

This is why it is so essential that this nation develop its own supply of energy. The oil-exporting nations are bleeding us economically and will do so as long as we depend on them for fuel.

The Continental Bank of Chicago has proudly announced that it is expanding its agricultural business to provide funds to firms engaged in production and related activities.

The announcement notes that there are now more than 300 cattle feeders who require more than $3 million in credit.

Certainly agriculture needs more credit, but I question the wisdom of allowing such huge lots to develop.

Sooner or later they get into financial trouble and end up being owned by a chain store or a meat packing company.

They are an almost unsolvable source of air and water pollution.

I would much prefer to see thousands of farmers who were feeding 1,000 head of cattle or less, using their own feed, family labor and using the manure on their fields as fertilizer.

If these family operations were aided in controlling their pollution problems by federal agencies and not forced to compete with tax loss operations, the consumer would have a better quality beef at a more reasonable price.

If the cattle industry ever gets to the point that the oil and the auto industry are in, things are going to be difficult in the food industry from the consumer standpoint.

The Consumers Union takes a dim view of a new egg substitute product being sold as low in cholesterol, saying the product is passable if you must restrict your intake of cholesterol. It adds the product is no match for real eggs in nutrition.

Most of the samples tested by Consumers Union contained 18% less protein than advertised and 23% less than a real egg.

If you want to read more get the March issue of Consumers Report at your local library.

Perhaps egg producers ought to be reminded that the use of Consumers Union material for advertising is strictly prohibited. They have won court cases on the issue, so don't try it.

Consumers might be interested in two other comments in the article. One suggests that the issue of cholesterol and the need to avoid it is still open to argument. The other says the artificial product costs from 20% to 50% more than the real thing.

Carl Bronn, writing in Water Life, a monthly publication of the National Water Resources Association, claims that the interstate highway caused more damage to Wyoming than coal mining ever did.

If the mining companies will restore the land and seed it to grass successfully, coal removal would make sense, but to leave the land a ruined collection of spoil banks and unsuitable for anything is unforgivable. The land must be restored, and the price of the coal must cover the cost of restoration. This concept is generally accepted by environmentalists who want to live in a world with electricity and heat in winter.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The world grain market has been undermined by the high price of fuel. Fuel costs have drained dollars, francs, yen and other currencies out of the pockets of people who had been expected to greatly expand their meat consumption.

This has left livestock producers in Japan, Greece, Ireland and the United States holding the bag, which is full of meat they cannot sell at a price high enough to cover the cost of grain and protein supplements.

Firms in Italy which make a living reselling American soybean meal and feed grains also got trapped with large supplies of very expensive grain.

Good planting conditions in the Southern states and improved weather for winter wheat, plus the resumption of fish meal production in Peru has created other price-depressing factors.

Farmers are holding tough and have backed off selling their grain at lower prices. If the oil exporting countries would cut the price of oil immediately, it would still take many weeks to stabilize the world grain market.

If we should happen to get perfect crop weather around the world, farmers could find themselves in deep trouble. This is extremely unlikely, but the very possibility of it is scaring grain speculators into selling their holdings.

It will take a fairly important weather problem to make a spectacular grain price rise in the next few weeks. As long as the grain farmer's customer, the livestock producer, is in trouble around the world, prices will remain weak.

was a 25% increase in job offers overall, and job opportunities increased in the technical and engineering fields and in the business category.

Opportunities in engineering, led by chemical and civil engineering, showed a 50% increase in volume during the current academic year, Hallgren noted. He said offers for employment in business paralleled the national experience, with a 13% increase, although marketing and distribution offers dropped 8% — "a strange phenomenon," according to Hallgren.

"Not only were more jobs available this year," Hallgren said, but students have generally been well pleased with the kinds of positions and the salaries offered, which have been very substantial.

With classification system, slow developing cancer has been halted with simple operation.

(c) Newhouse News Service
Washington — A new system for classifying breast cancers developed by two Yale University physicians could be a first step toward helping to resolve the controversy over the preferred treatment for the disease — the simple or radical mastectomy.

The radical mastectomy, involving removal of not just the breast, but the underlying muscle tissues and lymph glands in the armpit, has been the orthodox surgical approach to breast cancer.

More recently some surgeons have advocated the simple mastectomy or "lumpectomy" in which only the tumor, or simply the breast and perhaps the lymph glands are removed, but not the underlying muscles.

Although the simple mastectomy or lumpectomy is less disfiguring, some specialists have argued that it cannot be as effective in eradicating the cancer and assuring the patient the best chances for a five-year survival without recurrent of the disease.

Under the new system of classification developed by the two Yale Physicians, breast cancers would be diagnosed for treatment not only on the basis of their size and location, but also on the basis of their rate of growth.

In a study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, based on the records of 219 women, the researchers said that the rate of growth of a malignant tumor had a bearing on the chances of recovery.

The new classification system combines the established method of diagnosing a cancer according to the size and location of the tumor with a consideration for how long it took the tumor to reach that stage.

Determining the rate of growth of the tumor depends in large part on the patient's own report of when she first noticed the tumor, although if she has had a regular checkup shortly before the diagnosis is made by a physician, that finding can be useful, Drs. Mary E. Charlson and Alvan R. Feinstein said in the study.

A cancer that has developed slowly was defined as one that has not undergone any major changes in the size of the tumor, resulted in any new lumps or skin ulcerations, spread to any other parts of the body, or changed from soft to a hard tumor for at least three months after it was discovered.

A rapid rate of growth was defined as any cancer that showed any of the transitions less than 18 months after it was discovered, and an intermediate rate of growth would be used to classify any other patients.

Combined with the traditional system of classification, a cancer could be diagnosed as taking one of four forms—the one with the best prognosis a slow developing cancer in the traditional stage one called under the new system Stage A and working down to Stage D, depending on how rapidly the cancer had grown and how advanced the disease was.

Patients in Stage A have a 100% chance of recovery—that is, a five year survival rate—regardless of whether they are treated with simple or radical mastectomy, Drs. Charlson and Feinstein reported.

For patients in other stages, radical surgery proved more successful with the patients in the study's admittedly small sample, the authors said.

Employer Buys Talent, Not Time

DEAR ABBY: The other day you published a letter from a secretary who professed to like her job and her boss, but she complained about being sent on non-clerical errands, such as picking up other employees or shopping for the boss, too often. This wasn't part of the job, she said, and she resented doing it.

And yet it would seem to me that if the boss sends her on these errands, and she does them on company time, then they are, indeed, a part of the job and she does not have a legitimate complaint. I could see her gripe if she were expected to do all these things on her own time, but this apparently wasn't the case. The problem is simply that she thinks she's being paid for her typing, and the boss obviously thinks she's being paid for her time. I tend to agree with the boss. So long as he is footing the bill, what does it matter whether the secretary is taking dictation or doing the boss' legwork?

MS. JONES

DEAR MS. J.: When one advertises for a typist, if "legwork" is part of the job, the applicants should be so advised. An employer does not buy "time" — he buys "talent, muscle, or specialized skill." A woman hired to do secretarial work shouldn't be expected to sit with the kiddies any more than a man hired to sell real estate should be expected to wax the floors.

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on a talk show recently, and you were asked: "At what age do you think children should be told the facts of life?" You replied, "When they're old enough to ask, they're old enough to know."

I agree with you. I'm with Planned Parenthood, and this morning we heard from a group of angry mothers in one school district who are fuming about our week-long educational programs for 7th and 8th graders, so we've arranged to get the parents together so we can talk about it. By the time we're through, those parents will be saying: "We wish we had this when we were kids." I know it will happen. It always does.

We have a slogan, "All obstacles can be turned into opportunities." It's true. Hang in there, Abby!

LYN IN YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR LYN: Education is the answer to V.D., illegitimacy and irresponsible sex. Count me as another who wishes they had sex education in the schools when I was a kid. What people DON'T know, CAN hurt them.

DEAR ABBY: I can't resist writing this letter to "HAD IT IN NASHVILLE," who wanted to have his wife's teeth cemented together to keep her from talking. It will never work. He is underestimating the powers of a woman.

I broke my jaw and had to have my teeth wired together for six weeks. While the dentist was putting the wires on, I was concerned—not that I wouldn't be able to eat—but to talk! My dentist laughed and said: "Honey, I have yet to see a woman that I could shut up by wiring her teeth together."

My husband will confirm the fact that I had no trouble talking for the entire six weeks.

BEEN THERE IN S.C.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Next Sunday is Easter. Please do not give a child a living gift unless he is old enough to care for it properly. Every year a shocking number of baby chicks, rabbits, kittens and puppies have been mauled, manhandled, smothered and neglected to death by children who have received them as Easter gifts, and who regard them as "toys." Have a heart and give small children stuffed animals instead.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Chase Away Those Lunch Box Blues

By CAMILLE J. STAGG

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Are your children swapping sandwiches with their classmates? Perhaps your home school-lunch program needs brightening. Anyone who has had to tote a lunch knows how dull the sandwich routine can be, so jazz up those lunch bags with inventive meals that no one would trade away. We have a few ideas you might not have tried.

If there are no facilities for heating food, the child is confined to cold lunches that keep well. But they need not be the same old sandwiches.

Cheese cubes, a hunk of bread and fruit might be a welcome change from a cheese sandwich, and a container of cold creamy soup, relishes, a hard-cooked egg, crackers and fruit is another idea. Cottage cheese can be blended with vegetables or fruits, seasoned appropriately and packed into small containers for a change of pace or a dieter's lunch. Likewise with chicken, tuna, egg salad or any of the sturdy salad mixtures.

The important thing to remember is to keep salads with creamy bases, meats and other perishables cold; when the lunch will not be refrigerated for several hours, pack a small container that has been filled with water and frozen to keep the food cold, or choose sandwiches which freeze well, and pack them frozen in the lunchbag. By lunchtime, the sandwich will be thawed but still cold.

When you make sandwiches several times a week, it is more efficient to make them assembly-line style once a week, then cut, wrap, label and freeze them. Then you can spend time with your family at breakfast and merely slip the frozen sandwiches into their lunchboxes as they leave.

For best nutrition, select whole-grain breads; two or three varieties help to prevent monotony. Spread bread with butter, margarine, sour cream or cream cheese; mayonnaise, after freezing and thawing, makes soggy bread. A bit of mayonnaise may be added to salad fillings, but most of them do not freeze well. Avoid freezing any mixtures with high-water vegetables, such as tomatoes, celery and cucumber. While cooked egg yolks freeze well, whites get rubbery. Slice leftover roasts thinly — thin slices are easier to eat than one thick hunk.

Some good, freezable sandwich combinations are sliced turkey or chicken with cranberry relish; deviled ham with pickle relish and mustard; chopped dates, nuts, raisins and cream cheese (especially good on brown or raisin bread); roast pork with fruit butter, and salmon, sour cream and dill.

WITH A LITTLE . . . help, Mrs. Kendall McWilliams stocks up on sandwiches for the week.

and suddenly the outlook changes drastically. Instead of the 12 or 13 tricks you had expected to make quite easily—against a normal 2-2 or 3-1 club division—the slam is now in danger of going down.

But if you keep your head firmly screwed onto your shoulders, you soon realize that the slam is solidly in the bag. You go up with the ace of clubs and return a low club.

West can't afford to go up with the king—you'd have tricks to burn if he did—so he follows low and you win the club in dummy with the jack.

The rest is easy as pie. You play a diamond to the ace, followed by a low heart to the nine. Win or lose, you are sure of 12 tricks. When it later turns out that West started with three hearts to the queen, you wind up making 13.

As happens so often, the hand had its ups and downs. Everything looked perfectly kosher when dummy first came down, but at trick two the picture got very involved. It looked as though you'd have to concede the queen of clubs to the king and later guess which way to take the two-way heart finesse.

But by staying cool at the crucial juncture, it became possible to shape the play so as to firmly guarantee the slam.

Fresh Baking Powder

Replace baking powder when it begins to cake, an indication that moisture has gotten in and the powder has lost its leavening power.

Little Hands Can Help

An extra laundry hamper, reserved for the children's muddy or wet play clothes and placed conveniently in a first-floor bathroom — or wherever the children wash after a lively outdoor play session — is a work-saver on several counts.

Income Picture Is Getting Better

More women today receive income than ever before. Some 86% compared with 73% in 1958. In addition to paid jobs, their money comes from Social Security, private pensions and life insurance proceeds, personal savings, investments or income from rentals or other property.

Bathe Lampshades The Easy Way

Many lampshades are washable, particularly those made of fabric that are sewn not glued. Any trim, in color or pasted-on, should be removed or else not washed by the following method.

Refurbishing consists of filling the bathtub or dish sink with enough warm water to cover the shade. Add detergent and swish to dissolve.

First, vacuum the shade inside and out to remove surface dirt. Then immerse the shade in the water and agitate by moving from side to side and moving up and down. For stubborn dirt, rub with a well-lathered soft-bristled brush. Rinse the shade in several changes of clean water. Dip up and down.

Dry the shade by tying a string to the middle of the frame. Then hang it over the bathtub or from a clothesline outdoors to drip dry. Or pat dry with a bath towel.

Plastic, plastic-coated, laminated or parchment shades can be cleaned with a sponging of thick suds. To rinse, wipe with a damp cloth and dry with a clean cloth.

POSTCARD

by

Stan
Delaplane

San Francisco — While I was in Mexico, the girl moppet went into business. I got home just in time to keep us out of the poorhouse.

She said: "I sell coffee cake. I charge 45 cents."

It's a prepared mix. You put the mix in a plastic bag. You break an egg in it. Add a cup of milk. You squeeze the bag to mix it up. Put it in a pan (That comes with the mix) and bake it 25 minutes.

I said: "How much does this mix cost?"

She said: "It costs 45 cents."

I said: "It costs 45 cents. You sell it for 45 cents. How do you make a profit?"

She said: "I don't pay for it. I charge it to you."

It seems to me I've heard that song before.

Female logic on the money side is not hard to figure out. It just to understand why it's so logical to them.

When the older child was making her first million, we had a lemonade stand. It was at the top of a dead end street. And though we waited anxiously for the world to beat a path to our door, nobody came but the milkman.

We enticed a few neighborhood children up the street. Few of them had any money.

Finally I bought a round of drinks for the house.

Thus she showed a handsome profit. I bought the lemons and sugar. The ice was free.

We have a lot of traffic at Snug Harbor. I said: "You'll have to raise the price."

She said: "Nobody will buy the coffee cake."

I said: "Sure they will. Look at the gas stations and the price of gas."

We put new signs on the bulletin board.

"Due to inflation and the cost of labor, we have raised the price of coffee cake to 95 cents."

We sold four the first Sunday.

The idea of the added milk and egg cost the mixture people a million dollars. They had a good mix. All you had to do was add water — the dried milk and egg were already in there.

Housewives simply would not buy the easy mix. The mix people hired a motivation research man. and after researching he said:

"Housewives making cakes without having to do anything get a sense of guilt. They feel they are not active. Not needed."

So he said: "Let them feel like they are doing something. Let them pour in a cup of milk and break an egg."

It was an instant success.

I said: "You see? We're charging 95 cents and you've sold more than you did at 45 cents. A few more days of this and you'll pass Exxon."

She was baking cakes like crazy.

I said: "When are you going to start paying for the mix?"

She said: "If I pay for the mix, I won't make 95 cents."

I said: "Look, child, don't you see —?"

She said: "And besides 45 cents isn't much for you. And I'll let you have your coffee cake for only 75 cents."

I said: "Is there any cooking sherry to go with it?"

Beating Leaves Photographer With Bad Sight

NEW YORK (AP) — W. Eugene Smith was beaten by a mob two years ago while working on a pictorial expose of lethal industrial pollution in a Japanese fishing village.

The expose has earned him a "Man of the Year" citation from Camera, an American photographic magazine. But the 55-year-old grandfather of 12 says the beating may cost him his most valued photographic tool: his vision.

"My sight is extremely bad now," said Smith. "The problem is that two nerves and a blood vessel are pinched by vertebrae in my upper back."

Jackson Knocks Two Homers

Henry Aaron, in Atlanta's lineup under Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's orders, went hitless in three at-bats but Darrell Evans cracked a three-run homer to lead the Braves past Cincinnati 5-3 Sunday.

And Reggie Jackson continued his early assault on American League pitchers with a pair of homers in Oakland's 8-4 pasting of Texas.

Aaron, who left the game in the middle of the seventh inning, struck out in the second and third innings, then grounded out to third base in the fifth inning to remain one home run short of breaking Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714. Losing pitcher Clay Kirby, making his first start for the Reds, fanned Aaron on six straight pitches in their first two duels. Both third strikes were called.

In other National League games, the defending champion New York Mets belted Philadelphia 9-2. San Francisco beat Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles walloped San Diego 9-2. Pittsburgh's game at St. Louis was rained out and the Chicago Cubs doubleheader at Montreal was postponed by snow and wet grounds.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore beat Detroit 5-1 in the opener of a twinbill before the Tigers took the 10-inning nightcap 8-4, and the New York Yankees pounded Cleveland 7-1.

The Chicago White Sox-California Angels game, tied 4-4 after 10 innings, was called off because of snow, to be replayed in its entirety later in the season. Rain knocked out the Boston-Milwaukee and Minnesota-Kansas City games.

Jerry Grote drilled a tie-breaking single in the eighth inning and a three-run homer in the ninth to power the Mets past the Phillies.

Dave Kingman hit a three-run homer in the first inning and Bobby Bonds hit a two-run double in the third in the Giants' victory over the Astros.

Cyclones Lose, 9-8

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Colorado took advantage of four Iowa State errors to snap a fivegame Big Eight Conference losing streak and defeat the Cyclones 9-8 in Ames Sunday.

Colorado gained an 8-6 lead with three runs in the eighth inning, coming on singles by Jay Sierra and Dave Engels, a walk and three Iowa State errors.

The Buffs scored what proved to be the winning run in the ninth on a hit batsman, an infield error and a passed ball.

The Cyclones threatened with two runs in the bottom of the ninth on a pinch single by Charley Weber, Craig Herr's triple and an infield out. Colorado reliever Mark Beaton came on to put down the rally.

Devine Satisfied With Pack, Tagge

Scottsdale, Ariz. (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers wound up three days of spring training Sunday and coach Dan Devine came away more than satisfied.

"We accomplished what we intended to accomplish and probably more," Devine said.

"It was a good camp. You never have the ability you hoped you would have.

Devine said he was impressed with quarterback Jerry Tagge.

"Jerry had a very good camp," he said of the third-year signal caller from Nebraska.

"There's a big difference between the Jerry Tagge of last year and the Jerry Tagge of this year."

Undaunted Frazier Paces Knicks' Win

New York (AP) — Walt Frazier said he has heard fans boo such superstars as Tom Seaver and Joe Namath, but "basically I have never had a bad playoff series, so I didn't think I should be kicked around by the fans."

Frazier, booed in his previous appearance at Madison Square Garden, turned the cat-calls into cheers by scoring 38 points, including 16 in the final period, and carrying the New York Knicks to a 106-105 victory over the Capital Bullets in a National Basketball Association playoff game.

"I can't hold a grudge against the fans," said the Knicks' superstar guard. "But it does hurt when you get booed. However, you have to learn to take the bitter with the sweet."

Frazier, one of the highest scorers and leading playmakers in the league, was devastating in the hectic last quarter against the Bullets. He hit eight of nine field goal attempts as the Knicks withstood the Bullets with 14 of 21 accuracy from the floor.

Frazier said that before the game "I was so nervous during the warmup that I could hardly get the ball in the hoop." It didn't take long for him to find the range. He connected on 16 of 26 from the field during the game.

The Knicks' second straight triumph, in the nationally-televised game, gave them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference series. Game No. 6 will be played Wednesday night at Landover, Md., and if a seventh game in necessary, it will be at the Garden Friday night.

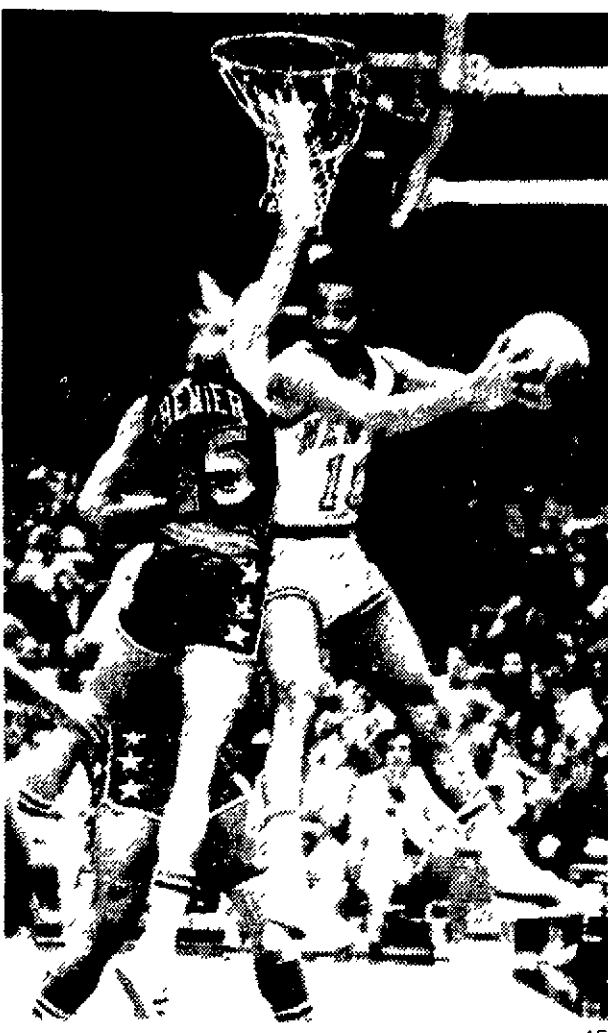

The redoubtable Frazier, New York's all-star guard, almost single-handedly repulsed the Bullets in the frantic final period. He scored 14 of the Knicks' last 18 points, putting New York ahead to stay 96-95 with a jump shot with 3:39 remaining.

Then he set up Bill Bradley for another jumper, giving New York a 98-95 advantage.

Capital's Mike Riordan, held scoreless in the first half, hit a field goal, giving him 14 points, and putting the Bullets within 98-97. But Frazier followed with a layup, then stole the ball and drove for another basket hiking New York's lead to 102-97.

Elvin Hayes, the Bullets' high scorer, then dropped in two free throws Bradley countered with a jumper before Hayes and Phil Chenier, who had 26 points, connected on field goals leaving New York ahead 104-103.

But Frazier, whose total points were a career high play-off figure for him, then connected on his final basket—and the last one for New York—a jumper with 33 seconds left. Capital's Wes Unseld got the game's last basket.

The Knicks had led 55-52 after a very heated first half. Chenier and Bradley exchanged words after Chenier tumbled to the floor while driving for the basket in the first period. Capital's Kevin Porter was tagged with a technical foul after being called for his fourth personal with five seconds left in the second quarter, and both teams criticized the officiating of Earl Strom and Bob Rakel.

At the intermission, both Strom and Rakel received a police escort to the officials' dressing room.

Frazier led the Knicks in the first half with 18 points while Hayes and Chenier each tallied 13 for Capital. But it was rookie Nick Weatherpoon who helped keep the Bullets close, scoring his team's last 10 points in the second period. Meanwhile, Porter, who had sparked the Bullets' offense in the earlier games, was held scoreless, and he also failed to score in the second half.

Bradley, who had been held scoreless in the opening quarter, connected for 12 points in the second. Frazier and Earl Monroe dominated the New York attack in the first quarter, sharing 20 consecutive points during one stretch.

The Bullets forged ahead 78-77 at the end of the third quarter on a jumper by Hayes just before the final buzzer. Hayes collected 10 points during the third quarter.

Conquistadors Seek Chamberlain's Play

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Stars take a 3-2 lead to San Diego Monday night for the sixth game of their best-of-seven American Basketball Association playoff series with the San Diego Conquistadors, who hope to have the services of Coach Wilt Chamberlain — as a player.

San Diego owner Leonard Bloom said Saturday he would ask a Los Angeles superior court judge Monday to allow Chamberlain to play in Monday night's game.

If the Stars win, they will advance to the Western Division finals against Indiana or San Antonio. If they lose, the seventh playoff game will be played in Salt Lake Thursday night.

Whether Chamberlain can play might be determined on whether his old team, the Los Angeles Lakers, loses in the NBA playoffs Sunday, possibly ending the Lakers' contract hold over him.

Unser 1st In Field Of Four

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Bobby Unser, driving in only his third race of the year, roared from behind twice in his Olsonite Eagle to win the Trentonian 200 Sunday in a race marred by seven caution flags which only four drivers finished.

Unser, elder of the Albuquerque N.M. racing Unser brothers, covered the 200 miles in 1 hour, 33 minutes and 42 seconds for an average speed of 125.618 mph. It was Unser's second victory in his three starts on the circuit this year, having also won the Ontario 500.

Gordon Johncock of Phoenix, Ariz. was second 30 seconds behind Unser. Only four cars out of a field of 19 finished the race which saw seven caution flags go up to cover a total of 35 of the 134 laps.

Andretti, who won pole position with his new car, led on the first 33 laps. Billy Vukovich of Fresno, Calif. was third a lap behind Unser and Johncock and Jimmy Caruthers of Phoenix came in fourth.

Rebel 500 Marred By Wrecks

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — David Pearson won a wreck-marred time-consuming Rebel 500 stock car race Sunday, bringing his Mercury home about six seconds ahead of a gas-less Bobby Allison.

The race was flagged to a halt with 112 miles remaining after Lennie Pond, the 1973 Grand National rookie of the year, rammed his Chevrolet into the third turn guard rail.

The collision knocked down a section of the steel barrier in one of the most dangerous sections of the oval, and track crewmen needed 38 minutes to get it repaired. Pond, 34, of Petersburg, Va., walked away from the wreckage unhurt.

The usually high-speed race already had been slowed by seven yellow lights, twice when cars smashed into each other in the first turn at ancient Darlington International Raceway. Four drivers were involved in the wrecks, but only veteran James Hylton suffered injuries.

There had been 24 lead changes among eight drivers in the hotly-contested race before the halt, but only Allison, Pearson and Buddy Baker were in the same lap at the restart.

The three ran nose to tail and swapped the lead several times before Allison wheeled by Pearson with just over 50 miles to go and headed for what appeared to be certain victory.

But Pearson caught his adversary as they entered the first turn with 10 laps remaining, zipped by and was never headed as Allison suddenly slowed down on his next to final lap. His Chevrolet had run out of gas and he narrowly avoided giving up second place to the charging Baker.

Pearson, a 39-year-old, three-time Grand National champ and a $1 million career winner picked up $16,075 for his first triumph of the season. Allison, who has won only once this campaign, took second place money of $8,725.

Joint Funeral Focuses On Tornado Tragedy

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) — Residents of this small Ohio River town paused from the task of piecing together shattered lives Sunday to pay tribute to the dead.

About 1,800 persons came to the Meade County High School gymnasium for an interdenominational funeral service for the 30 persons killed when a tornado slashed through the community of 1,600 Wednesday.

Sunday was officially declared a day of mourning and a flag flew at half staff beside the filling station which is serving as a makeshift city hall.

Trucks hauled debris through the town all morning and workmen bulldozed the rubble that remains over half the community. But all work in the town half destroyed by the tornado stopped briefly at 2 p.m.

Throughout the morning and early afternoon friends and relatives had filed over the canvas covered gymnasium floor past the 14 coffins that still remained at the school Sunday. One coffin held a mother and child.

Flowers decked each coffin.

"It was our feeling that it would not be good for the community to have separate funerals for everybody," said the Rev. Kenneth Lile of the Brandenburg United Methodist Church. "Everybody would want to go to all of them and it could go on for days."

"It would have prolonged the thing and it would be agonizing," said Meade County Judge James Greer.

Greer said the joint service was decided on "to focus attention on the tragedy we have had. A loss like this is pretty significant. We're a small community. Everyone knows everyone."

A chaplain from nearby Ft. Knox read the list of dead. "The role of the honored dead, Peggy Williams..." Ministers from area churches rose in succession to recite an obituary of each victim.

At one point the electricity failed. Minutes later the service resumed where it left off.

Two coffins were borne away immediately after the service. The others were to be taken from the makeshift chapel to burial sites later. Lile said the last funeral is set for Tuesday morning.

The job of rebuilding resumed Sunday after noon. The sound of a chain saw reverberated outside the school within minutes after the service.

"The people have already started to build back," Greer said. "We have got one half of our town demolished. But we have got pride here. In six months come back. You won't recognize it."

Victims In 11 States Rebuild In Wake Of Disaster

By The Associated Press

In temporary shelters, living on borrowed goods, the victims of last week's tornadoes tried to put the tragedy behind them Sunday and prepared to resume their daily activities.

The reminders of the storm that swept through 11 states and Canada, claiming some 300 lives and causing uncounted millions of dollars in damage, were everywhere: mass funerals for the victims, disaster relief centers to aid the homeless, shattered buildings.

For some, it was impossible to rebuild. "It just isn't Brandenburg anymore," said Ellis Blake, 67, as he surveyed the wreckage of the tiny Kentucky community where 30 persons died. Residents of the Ohio River town about 30 miles from Louisville planned a public, non-denominational funeral Sunday afternoon.

Federal officials estimated damage to insured private property in tornado-stricken areas at over half a billion dollars. And that figure doesn't count uninsured damage or damage to government property.

More than 6,000 are homeless, according to authorities. Thomas Dunne, head of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, said the government will do its best to provide shelters, using the nearly 7,000 mobile homes which are stored in warehouses for such purposes. He said, however, that it would take time.

"It's not going to happen in a day or a week," Dunne said Saturday in Atlanta, Ga., after a two-day tour of six states declared federal disaster areas. Officials said the delay stemmed from problems in hooking up the mobile homes to water, sewage and power lines.

Bobby Blalock, a spokesman for the federal disaster center in Dalton, Ga., said Sunday morning that 15 families had been processed at the center "and we expect more this afternoon after church." He said the people sought "temporary housing, loans and some of them wanted a combination of services."

Even while mourning their dead, the living looked to the future. Three hundred students from the Kentucky Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville were dispatched, one to a home, to act as carpenters and help rebuild damaged structures. Seabee Detachment 514, a reserve construction battalion based in Louisville, was scheduled for a two-week assignment in Puerto Rico, a reward for being named the top battalion in the country. Members said they'd pass up the trip and stay in Kentucky to help recovery efforts.

Two "one-stop" disaster relief centers were opened by the federal government in Tennessee on Sunday. Another center opened Saturday and one more was scheduled to be in operation on Tuesday. Officials said the initial estimate of damage to insured property was $11 million and predicted total damage of up to $25 million.

Three funerals were scheduled Monday in Xenia, Ohio, one of the hardest-hit areas. Rescue workers searched the rubble of a furniture store that had been used as a relief center for the body of a National Guardsman missing in the wake of a fire Saturday. The body of another guardsman was recovered earlier.

Six of 12 public schools in Xenia were destroyed and although classes were not scheduled to resume until next week because of spring vacation, authorities considered alternate locations, including private schools and large buildings. Wilberforce University officials said classes would resume April 29 on a new section of the campus; authorities at Central State University, 80 per cent destroyed by the storm, were still looking for a place to operate.

The number of tornado-related deaths in Indiana rose by one when a girl was born Saturday, 2½ months prematurely, to a woman seriously injured in the storm. The baby died almost immediately and doctors said the death was due to the injuries sustained by the mother.

The death toll on Sunday stood at 314. Alabama reported 81 dead, Kentucky reported 72, Tennessee, 46; Ohio, 38, including the guardsman whose body was recovered; Indiana, 41, Georgia, 16, North Carolina, 5, Michigan, 3, Illinois, 2, Virginia, 1, West Virginia, 1, and Ontario, Canada, 8.

Is This A Family Dispute?

Seagulls don't go through a formal wedding ceremony, but they do go through some of the things that come after a wedding ceremony. These two in Corpus Christi, Tex., seem to be involved in a family dispute. Or it may be that they are just arguing about who gets the warmest place in the sun. In any case, after a bit of fussing, the two calmly resumed their nap.

Modernized Miami Hospital Bankrupt; Additions Questioned

(C) Washington Star-News

Washington — Cedars of Lebanon, the Miami Hospital whose $75 million additions were dedicated by President Nixon in February, has filed for bankruptcy.

Cedars, which Nixon hailed as a glowing example of free enterprise only 54 days ago, asked the U.S. District Court in Miami Saturday to work out some arrangement whereby the hospital can remain open while it consolidates its debts. Presumably, creditors will be paid only a part of the dollars they are owed or will be paid in full over a number of years.

The hospital's elaborate expansion plans have been primarily financed by $62 million Federal Housing Authority-backed mortgage loans. According to the F.H.A. office in Miami, the hospital has defaulted on $27,000 payments on two of these loans whose total face value is $13.8 million for the last three months. Further payments of about $10 million on these loans and others insured by the F.H.A. are due within 90 days.

Meanwhile, John Maguire, a Miami reporter, has found that a wing of the hospital—described as a patient self-care unit—is being run like a motel with rooms renting to all comers for $22 single occupancy and $36 double occupancy a night.

Maguire told the Star-News that he had made the discovery Thursday by simply walking in and renting a room for himself. "You just walk in, tell the desk clerk you want a room and hand them $22 — or any major credit card," he said.

Maguire said that the 112 rooms in Cedars' $2.9 million north building are equipped with color television and a direct line to a nurse on duty, he added, and repeated buzzes on the line bring no response.

The self-care unit was intended to provide housing for patients who do not need intensive care, but find it convenient to be close to the hospital because they are under observation or undergoing medical tests.

This was among recent additions which also include a $1.2 million automated health testing facility designed to handle 100 patients a day. Last week, however, the Cedars administrator, Harry Hochstadt, admitted that fewer than 20 people a day are using the facility. And informed sources said that personnel had been laid off.

Neither Hochstadt nor other hospital officials were available for comment Saturday. Earlier, they had refused to comment on why the Cedars' board of directors had fired its chairman, Harry Lewis, and the hospital's president, Sanford K. Bronstein, last Saturday.

Cedars' expansion plans have been controversial ever since they were undertaken more than four years ago. The Comprehensive Health Planning Agency of South Florida refused to certify the project on grounds that the facilities were unnecessary, but its decision was overruled in Tallahassee and Washington.

Truckers Make No Decision On Shutdown

Fremont (AP) — No decision was made Sunday by the Independent Truckers of Nebraska on joining a threatened nationwide shutdown on May 13.

Calls were made for a vote but Chairman Don Mulder of Lincoln left the room.

He said a vote would be taken at a meeting in Grand Island on April 28.

Mulder said only a handful of about 30 truckers attending Sunday's meeting were members of the organization. He said the others were prospective members and they should not speak for the statewide organization.

The month-old group has about 100 members.

The shutdown has been discussed in a national truckers' magazine.

Unicam May Have Had 'Finest Hour' Last Week

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Critics will say it came a little late in the game, but the legislature, just before adjourning for the long weekend, may have had its "finest hour" of 1974.

Strictly speaking, the finest hour ran about nine hours. It came Thursday, 56th day of the 60-day session, with the adjournment deadline closing in, and mountains of bills seemingly doomed to death from inaction and lack of time.

The motion that brought rare discipline to the body came from Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh. It proposed that lawmakers proceed immediately to consideration of the 43 bills — among 166 on general file — awaiting first round floor debate.

Public Funding Idea Supported By Candidate

Marge Schlitt, 28th district legislative candidate, Sunday announced her support for an independent State Campaign Finance Commission. The creation of the commission has been proposed by State Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha in an amendment to LB 667.

Ms. Schlitt said, "At present spending reports go to the office of a partisan elected official, the secretary of state. An independent commission would give the people of Nebraska confidence that the campaign laws were being administered in an impartial and efficient way."

"Beyond receiving the disclosure statements, the commission should be required to inspect the reports and make them available to the press and the public. Cases of excessive or illegal spending should be reported to a prosecutor. Defining clear and specific responsibility is vital to successful enforcement of disclosure regulations."

bate — which senators had identified as priority bills. The motion proposed that no more than 10 minutes be devoted to each bill, and failure to advance a bill would relegate it to the bottom of the heap.

The enforcement job fell to Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, presiding as speaker. With stopwatch diligence, but without fear or favor, he enforced the rule.

By the dinner hour, lawmakers had advanced 35 bills from general file, assuring them a sporting chance at final passage, and killed another eight.

In another unusual show of discipline, senators then elected to stay on and deal with bills on select file, including major appropriations bills, to spare hangups in the final days. Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha quietly induced colleagues to withhold the series of appropriations bills amendments they planned to offer, amendments which could have tied up lawmakers in hours of debate.

By 7:31 p.m. adjournment, the legislature could count 51 bill advancements or dispositions. Almost spontaneously, senators joined in a standing ovation for Proud's leadership.

So pleased were senators with the 10-minute rule that some talked of adopting it as general policy.

Sen. W. H. Hasebrook of West Point, for one, thought the bills received as effective scrutiny under the time limit as many have received in two hours of floor talk. He said a 15-minute limit might make an acceptable general rule.

Adjournment for the long weekend left four days remaining of the session, barring an unlikely extension to which at least 40 senators would need to agree.

They will be busy days. Seventy-seven bills are on, or advancing toward final reading stage.

A sizable batch of amendments have been submitted for consideration on bills still needing second stage advancement. Insiders expect efforts to breathe life into some of the measures still on general file, such as the constitutional amendment proposal to merge the four state colleges into the University of Nebraska system. The effort also could involve the sessions's most controversial public power bill, LB656, authorizing municipalities to join in power generation and transmission. The bill has been favored by the Omaha Public Power District, and opposed in part by the Nebraska Public Power District.

Watched closely in the remaining days also will be the sparring between the Legislature and Gov. J. James Exon over who shall have the last word on appropriations.

The tentative timetable, calling for sine die adjournment in the coming week, would seem to foreclose on any chance by the legislature to overrule Exon vetoes of appropriations.

Exon holds the line-item veto power—the power to change specific appropriation figures within the bills. An attorney general's opinion has held that the Legislature cannot override specific line item vetoes in a bill, but can only vote to restore the entire bill to its original form.

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Republican candidate for governor, voted for the timetable which appears to rule out veto overrides because of the chilling effect of the attorney general's opinion, but said he wants to give his position more thought.

Exon says he will fight any legislative effort to pin a "bad guy" label on him by giving him the last word on appropriations. He said he will return any vetoed legislation quickly, while lawmakers are still in session, so they cannot say they did not have a chance to overrule the chief executive.

Black Elk To Address Public At Wesleyan, UNL

Wallace M. Black Elk, grandson of John G. Neihardt's famous collaborator in "Black Elk Speaks," will speak to the public at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, April 10, in the Olin Lecture Hall on the Nebraska Wesleyan Campus.

He will also give an address at the University of Nebraska.

Work Negotiated For Corner, 70th

The Nebraska Department of Roads announced that right-of-way negotiations have begun for the improvement of the intersection of Corner Blvd. and 70th St. in Lincoln.

R. F. Needham of Lincoln is the project manager.

Lincoln on April 11 as part of the annual Indian Culture Week.

Like his grandfather, Wallace Black Elk is an Oglala Sioux holy man who has lived on the Rosebud Indian reservation in South Dakota, most of his life. There he became leader in the current sweeping rebirth of native American culture and a strong spokesman for his peoples' cultural and personal rights. At the same time Black Elk is always willing to try to clarify and explain traditional Indian beliefs and philosophy to outsiders, according to Joyce Wike, NWU anthropology professor.

In his visit to Lincoln he will be accompanied by his wife, son, and parents.

NWU Students Pick Poverty Top Problem

Poverty and pollution rate as society's greatest problems with President Nixon and the generation gap as least important in a survey of attitudes of 61 Nebraska Wesleyan students.

The students enrolled in Prof. Glenn Bush's Social Problems course completed a questionnaire ranking 15 problems in society. They were asked to give a personal judgment as to whether they would give high, medium or low priority to each of the problems. A computation of the mean scores produced the following rank order:

1. Poverty, 2. Pollution, 3. Juvenile Crime, 4. Energy Crisis, 5. Inflation, 6. Mental Health, 7. Adult Crime, 8. Racial Discrimination, 9. Population Explosion, 10. Abortion, 11. Alcohol, Big Corporations (tie), 12. Mr. Nixon, 13. Generation Gap.

In an analysis of the responses, Prof. Bush said students gave high priority to drugs, energy crisis, juvenile crime, mental health, pollution, population explosion, poverty, and racial discrimination.

Inflation was at the mid-point between high and medium priority. Abortion, adult crime, alcohol, and big corporations were given medium priority. The generation gap and President Nixon were given low priority.

Each of the 61 students also indicated which problems should be top and lowest priority. Candidates for top problem were widely scattered. Nine students selected the population explosion, 8 picked the energy crisis and mental health, 33 students selected the generation gap for the lowest priority, 12 picked Nixon, and six picked big corporations.

"The scattering of opinion on the number one priority probably illustrates the fact that each of us speaks and acts from our own individual social location, and the advocacy of any social therapy will receive some opposition or at least competition," Bush commented.

"Every society has its problems. But according to the perceptions of the people within a society as to what their problems are and the resources available to them, allocation of human and economic resources are made to the end of alleviating the problem," he said.
